Administration

—BY—

MONA DURHAM

What does it take to make a school system the size of Enid run smoothly and a school the size of Enid High School? There's more hebind the school's efficiency than first appears. Down the line beyond the students or the faculty is the answer. The responsibility for planning and executing the program belongs to the seven members of the Board of Education.

Three of these members are elected to the Board for a term of four years by the city's voters every two years, and one member is elected at-large. Although they receive no actual pay for their time and effort, these men and women are repaid by the appreciation shown by the Enid students.

This year the Board is headed by President Albert Braithwaite and Vice-President Edith Pinkerton. Other members are Dave Bucher, Cleo Fisher, Raymond F. Hayes, Delma Schrock and E. G. Wilmoth.

Six committees, all under the supervision of the president, handle the many kinds of problems and work that must be done. Cleo Fisher, Delma Schrock and E. G. Wilmoth serve on the Building and Grounds Committee.

The Custodians' Committee is made up of Raymond Hayes, Edith Pinkerton and Cleo Fisher. Dave Bucher, Edith Pinkerton and Raymond Hayes make up the Purchasing Committee.

The Insurance Committee is managed by E. G. Wilmoth, Delma Schrock and Dave Bucher. Edith Pinkerton, E. G. Wilmoth and Raymond Hayes compose the Teachers' Committee, and the Finance Committee is handled by Delma Schrock, Dave Bucher and Cleo Fisher.

The superintendent of schools hired by the Board is DeWitt Waller, dean of Oklahoma public school administrators and recognized for his scholarly, forward-looking leadership through the years.

Also employed to assist with the work are Martin H. Miller, Clerk; Henry H. Davis, Treasurer; Charles W. Carroll, Auditor; and Paul Edwards, Attorney.

Two of the Board's '53-'54 projects of greatest interest to Enid High School were the new cafeteria-auditorium wing which will be completed by next fall and the new football stadium soon to be begun to replace the old wooden bleachers.

The big project for elementary schools was the replacing of all the out-of-date furniture with modern blond-finish desks and other pieces. Three rooms also were added to Monroe and Coolidge grade schools. Arrangements were made for the building of three rooms at Hoover and two at Taft.

The students of Enid High School want to express their gratitude to these seven Enid citizens for their unselfish efforts in constantly striving for improvement of the Enid school system.

The E.H.S. Story

—BY—

HELEN SHIERS

We have just recently concluded a three-year assignment at Enid High School: our critical review of THE EHS STORY! It proves to be one of the most exceptional histories ever created by an American motion picture organization. The eyes of the public have never beheld its equal in genuine true-to-life drama, straightforwardness and stark realism.

Out of the Great Plains region surges a wealth of adventure, romance, humor, and tragedy; the heartfelt wisdom and adolescence of the modern teen-ager and his problems.

The actual production has taken approximately forty years of preparation and three years in the making. For an interval of five years, the story remained at a restless halt while work went underway on the reconstruction of the building after the great fire, which swept through its halls the night of September 2, 1943, devastating nearly half of its structure.

THE EHS STORY, starring the "guys and dolls of EHS," is complete with a cast of thousands and filmed in the breath-taking authenticity of technicolor and the greatness of the panoramic screen. Creating a deep emotional impact and throbbing with the very hearts and souls of an average American high school and its inhabitants, "Quill" Pictures, Inc., have really undertaken an unbelievable task with the eccentricities and temperament of the young people of today as they are, however, success is their motto, and indeed, success has been accomplished.

The movie story unfolds, and the massive machinery is set into motion with the first brick of the foundation being laid as a new part of a promising community in 1911, and then the passing years of growth follow in rapid succession. On to the scenes of a happy group of kids entering Enid High School on March 8, 1948, to launch upon their careers as high school students in the remodeled building for the first time since the fire, and finally, the finale of scenes when the students of 1954 eventually come to realize just how lucky they are to have been educated in such a typically modern school as Enid High.

During the entire feature, each department of the high school is presented within its own natural environment and with the actual faculty and class members of the real school in Enid, Oklahoma. The following is an account of these various departments as they appear.

The English department is one of the largest and most important of the academic subjects taught in Enid High. The sophomores are required to take sophomore English taught by Miss Laura Milam, Mrs. Delyte Poindexter, or Miss Eva Young. The course of study consists of straight grammar for the most part, accompanied by "Julius Caesar," "Idylls of the King" and "Silas Marner."

The juniors plunge headlong into their first year of solid literature with English literature and a six weeks' unit of grammar taught by Miss Laura Milam, Miss Ruth Moyer, or Mrs. Carol Spencer. Here, the great works are "Macbeth" and "A Tale of Two Cities."

The seniors take American literature (another complete study of literature) plus another six weeks' unit of grammar, taught by either Miss Charlotte Kretsch, the head of the department, or Mrs. Carol Spencer. In this class, "Hamlet" is read by all (either liked or disliked!), and the painful process of the library unit dawns upon the students for two whole weeks. In this each person selects an author, statesman, commentator, etc. and must find out everything he can about the person, read one of his books or pamphlets, and evaluate what he has read in a theme of approximately 2,500 or more words. This proves beneficial to anyone who plans to attend college, for it gives him experience in how to write themes as well as how to use the library.

Journalism, taught by Miss Ruth Scott, is considered a part of the English department and may be taken by both juniors and seniors. However, the seniors may use this as their last English requirement instead of American literature, while the juniors must still take English literature. The purpose of Journalism is to put out the school paper, the "Quill Weekly," and to publish the "Quill Annual" at the end of the year. The two first-year classes learn the basic fundamentals of Journalism and the history of the newspaper world and its functions. During the first semester, the students of the second-year class, who make up the staff of the "Quill Weekly," put this knowledge to work. The second semester the first-year classes take over the weekly staff, and the second-year students start to work on the year's annual.

A department which brings many material honors to Enid High is the Speech department, supervised by Mrs. Una Lee Voigt. General speech, radio, debate, and drama, are all a part of the curriculum for speech students. This past year three plays were given by the department: the all-school play, "Change of Heart;" the junior play,"Gabriel, Blow Your Horn;" and the senior play, "Father of the Bride." Assisting Mrs. Voigt by teaching the sophomore Speech classes was Mrs. Delyte Poindexter, who was also responsible for the junior class play.

Another compliment to the Speech department is their daily radio broadcast during the home room period. Also, as a member of the national organization of the Junior Town Meeting League, Enid High's Speech department presents a radio broadcast of the Junior Town Meeting every week over KCRC. Any sophomore, junior, or senior, is eligible to take this course, and many honors have been secured by its representatives at contests.

Enid High is proud of its Foreign Language department which carries a full series of Latin, French and Spanish. The head of the department, Miss Addie Fromholz, teaches Latin I, II, Caesar, Virgil, and French I, II, III, IV; Spanish I, II, III, IV is taught by Miss Mildred Montgomery. These two teachers share the entire load of three languages and have succeeded in making this department one of the most popular in Enid High.

Before graduation it is necessary to have two years of history. Oklahoma history is taken in junior high, and the second requirement of history results in American history during the senior year. At Enid High, American history is taught by Cecil Gott and John Provost.

World history is considered an elective and is usually taken the sophomore year. This class may be taken under George Pratt, Miss Helen Stewart or Rex Wilson. A year of Bible, taught by George Pratt, is also offered at Enid High. The first semester begins the course with the study of the Old Testament, and the second semester is a continuation of the course with the New Testament.

The Mathematics department offers a variety of courses for those students who are mathematically inclined. Plane Geometry may be taken under Dr. James deGruchy, Miss Florel Helema, Miss Ruth Moore or Earl Smith. Advanced algebra is taught by either Miss Florel Helema or Miss Ruth Moore. In the senior year, Trigonometry is taken one semester and Solid Geometry the other; both are taught by Miss Florel Helema, head of the department.

One year of science is required of everyone who graduates from Enid High. There are three of these subjects: biology, chemistry, and physics, which make up the complete Science department. Biology is taught by Dr. James deGruchy, Harold Duckett and Mrs. Beth Pratt; while Marvin Myers teaches chemistry; and physics is taught by Earl Smith. A one semester course in agriculture is taught by Harold Duckett during the second semester.

Driver Education has proven to be one of the most popular, as well as one of the most practical, courses taught in Enid High. There are two Driver Education instructors, Rex Wilson and Jim Keeton. Mr. Keeton has three classes daily, and Mr. Wilson has two, along with two classes of world history. As a one semester course and an elective, it is open to all students whether sophomore,

Superintendent of Schools DeWitt Waller and Principal D. Bruce Selby head the executive branches of administration not only of Enid High School, but also of two homes, complete with children and grandchildren. The two latest additions to the administrative headquarters are two grandchildren, Barbara Rothe and John H. Saxon III, who were born just two days apart. Both Barbara and John can be proud of the records made through the years by their grandfathers, who are interested not only in the academic subjects for students but are enthusiastic supporters of all sports too, and who find time amid their numerous, comprehensive activities, to give liberally of themselves to every worthwhile community enterprise.

r. Selby beams proudly as his first grandson, John 6 onths, gives out with a smaller edition of the famous oad Selby smile.

New Faculty Member

Enid High has added a new faculty member to the teaching staff this year. He is Earl Smith, Physics and Geometry teacher and former student of EHS.

Mr. Smith took over the position previously held by Homer Henson, now the principal at Longfellow Junior High.

Graduating from EHS in 1940 he attended Oklahoma A. and M. for two years and graduated from Phillips University where he received a B.S. degree in Education, specializing in mathematics and science.

Mr. Smith was a member of the 189th Field Artillery in 1952-53 while the 45th Division was in Korea.

Faculty

After a glance at the wide academic range of our faculty, it is easy to understand why Enid High School graduates rank near the top of college and university honor rolls all through the nation. We take pride in our faculty, for they are more than qualified to impart knowledge to the students passing through the halls of Enid High.

junior, or senior, as long as they will be 16 years of age before the course is completed. This year the students used a 1953 Chevrolet furnished by the courtesy of the Humphrey Chevrolet Company.

Two of the more useful courses in Enid High are Diversified Occupations and Distributive Education. D.O. is instructed by Tom Kennedy and deals in trade and business, while D.E. is headed by Perry McCoy and teaches salesmanship and the art of selling. Students taking these courses attend school only part of the time and work at their jobs for the remainder of the day. The advantages of these departments are numerous. They offer the student a chance to work and yet receive full credit. In the meanwhile he learns a trade and gets an education.

Enid High has an excellent Art department which keeps the more artistic members of the student body busy making posters and decorations for the various school functions. Miss Katherine Bales instructs all three classes, of which two consist of first-year students and one class of second-year students. This creative department has succeeded in making Enid High a brighter and more attractive school for its faculty and students to attend.

The Music department is responsible for piling up many of the competitive honors for Enid High. The EHS band and orchestra are directed by Gerald Hemphill and have the reputation of being among the best of their kind in the state. The choruses, girls' chorus, boys' glee club, girls' glee club, and the mixed chorus, all outstanding, are directed by Miss Maurine Morrow. The mixed chorus of Enid High has always been rated high among competition. All three of these fine organizations take part in the annual Tri-State Music Festival held in May each year and act as hosts to the visiting contestants from out-of-town and out-of-state high schools.

Two years of physical education are needed for graduation, and Enid High is said to have one of the best all-around Physical Education departments in existence. Paul Geymann reigns as athletic director, besides being the basketball and golf coach, with Charles Paine as the head football coach, assisted by Jim Keeton. Jim Stroup is in charge of the boys' swimming classes, Jewell Ridge is the coach of the Enid High track team, and John Provost coaches the baseball team. All six of these athletic men preside over the boys' physical education classes and manage to keep the "men" of EHS in good physical condition.

In the girls' Physical Education department, Miss Pat Armould teaches the girls' swimming classes, while Miss Lois Haskin instructs the girls in the gym classes. Enid High's excellent facilities and equipment aid in the teaching of various sports and games. Good sportsmanship is stressed, not only during the games, but at all times.

The Home Economics department is one of the pride and joys of Enid High School. Mrs. Lois Vance instructs the Foods classes where the future homemakers of tomorrow work industriously at finding "the way to a man's heart." The really amazing part of the foods classes consists of the seven efficiently arranged kitchens, equipped with all the modern facilities of ovens, refrigerators, built-ins, automatic dishwashers and dryers, and a garbage disposal system.

The other phase of this department is Clothing, taught by Miss Ellen Correll, who also offers a one-semester course in Home Craft during the second semester. Like Foods, Clothing is open to girls in all three grades and has produced many fine seamstresses, while Foods offers the girls an opportunity to become accomplished in their kitchen experiments.

An efficient bookkeeper or an expert typist who excels in shorthand need never be lacking a job. V. O. Marshall is the head of the Commerce department and instructs in bookkeeping I,II. Mrs. Lea Ida Boyle teaches typing I and a course in general business. Typing I and II and shorthand I, II are taught by Miss Hazel Powers and Miss Muriel Koger. Enid High turns out only the best in Commerce students, that's the motto!

The Industrial Arts department, headed by Myrl Kirk, is one of the most up-to-date beneficial departments in Enid High. Mr. Kirk teaches woodwork and also a one semester course in arts and crafts offered the second semester. However, his work isn't finished even after the school day is over; he instructs two classes for adults in the evening. One class meets twice a week and the other, three times. Jewell Ridge teaches mechanical drawing, while Robert Pyle has charge of the fully equipped machine shop. Herbert Seem instructs the printing classes whose main headache is printing the "Quill Weekly" as well as report cards, notices and tickets for the various school functions. These classes, open to sophomore, junior, and senior boys and girls, teach the students a trade and give them enough experience to enter the business world without further education or training after graduation.

One of the busiest and most used departments in Enid High is the Library, headed by Mrs. Rosamay Lynch. Mrs. Lynch, with the aid of several student assistants, is responsible for the smooth management of this essential department. The Library contains approximately 10,000 books which are always available to the students, and many a Library assistant will groan at the mere mention of the open season on library units by the seniors.

All of these departments make up the real Enid High School and appear in THE

Plainsmen Play for '53

—BY—

BRUCE HINSON

A graduation-weakened Plainsmen squad that took the field confidently and successfully early in the season fell victim to the greater experience and size of opposing teams but with spirit and fight reminiscent of championship Enid elevens of the past salvaged a 5 win—6 loss record.

Coaching their first year at Enid high, Charles Paine and Jim Keeton were well received by players and fans. Both are EHS graduates, Paine graduating in 1946 and Keeton, a member of the class of 1943.

As might be expected, both coaches were outstanding in athletics at Enid high. Under the tutelage of J. T. King, they made the all-conference; Keeton later playing his college football at Tulane University under the coaching of Henry Frnka and J. T. King, and Paine at the University of Oklahoma under Bud Wilkinson.

Faced with a rebuilding job this year, Coaches Paine and Keeton made profitable use of a star-studded backfield and a willing but largely inexperienced line to show up well against the best the conference had to offer.

Enid drew first blood in the season opener against Cherokee's Chiefs scoring on a Holden-Dykes handoff within the first two minutes, with the conversion by Ray Downs, Enid's place-kicking specialist who ran up an impressive percentage of successes during the year.

One minute later, after the Plainsmen gained possession on a pass interception, right halfback Bill McDaniel sprinted 32 yards to pay dirt. Opening-game jitters cancelled two long runs, a 65-yard reverse by Wade Arnold and a 70-yard punt return by McDaniel, due to over-eager Plainsmen jumping the gun.

Five seconds into the second quarter Holden completed a jump pass to Dennis who ran 60 yards to score. Dykes scored from 38 yards out for the fourth Enid marker, the score then standing 26-0.

Cherokee's first score was set up on the Enid three by a fumbled punt attempt. Racing against the buzzer ending the half, quarterback Bragg slipped across the goal line. The Chiefs had the last word in the game scoring again late in the final period on a four-yard plunge. FINAL SCORE: ENID 26—CHEROKEE 12.

Against a highly rated Wellington, Kans., squad the Plainsmen put on an impressive performance, rolling up a 28-point margin before the visitors tallied once. The first TD came on the first Enid play of the game with just 2:13 gone on a Holden-Arnold-Dykes relay for 40 yards. Next came a three-yard plunge by Dykes and six more points, set up by a Wellington fumble on their own 32 with Enid recovering.

Speedy halfback Wade Arnold countered for Enid again on a 34-yard handoff tackle, just practicing for what was the most spectacular play of the evening a 74-yard punt return from his own 26 to give the Blue and White the 28-0 margin they held at the half.

Halftime ceremonies were highlighted by the coronation of beautiful Jackie Lindsay as queen of the EHS band.

A sustained drive of 68 yards earned the Crusaders their first touchdown of the evening, polished off by quarterback Gary Thompson's 36-yard TD run. After a series of one-yard-line fumbles with the ball changing hands several times, Dykes went over for the final Enid tally.

Wellington's second string signal caller, Al Ybarra, sparked a drive from his own 36 ending in a 24-yard TD dash. FINAL SCORE: ENID 35—WELLINGTON 13.

In the year's first Mid-State conference clash, Norman's fighting Tigers got the jump on the defenders and scored with just over two minutes gone in the first quarter on a 7-yard hop by halfback Carl Dodd. On the first play from scrimmage following the Norman TD, Bill McDaniel playing one of the great games which earned him a berth on the All-State eleven, dashed 67 yards to cross the double stripe.

Some seven minutes later, Norman again went into the lead with Dodd plowing through the center for 23 yards and a touchdown. In the second quarter, after the ball had changed hands twice, eventually leaving Enid in possession, Arnold made an easy 23 yards to the TD.

McDaniel rolled up more of his impressive total of mileage, taking a punt on his own 25 and riding the sidelines for 75 yards, bringing the score to 21-12, the widest point spread in the game.

By virtue of an Enid fumble on their own 25, Norman fullback Tommy Fuerborn added six for Norman and put them back in the game. The Tigers were finally able to take advantage of the numerous fumbles and scored from 25 yards out, running the score to 25-21 in their favor.

With less than two minutes remaining in the final stanza all seemed lost for the locals. But they had an ace up the sleeve in the form of a Holden-Dennis pass good for 49 yards and a story book finish. Ray Downs converted for a total of four for the game which actually provided the winning margin with an even number of touchdowns.

The victory proved costly however due to an injury to star senior guard Richard Harman, who fractured his leg in the fray and performed an "iron man" stunt of practicing two full weeks and playing two more games before an x-ray examination revealed the break, ending his active participation for the remainder of the season. FINAL SCORE: ENID 28—NORMAN 25.

Shawnee's Wolfpack, hungry for revenge for a freak 19-13 defeat at Plainsman hands last year, completely overpowered Enid, holding the locals scoreless while hitting pay dirt three times themselves. In the opening period, Shawnee's Floyd Greenfield traveled 56 yards for the Wolves' first counter. A bad pass from center set up the visitors' second TD when the ball went high over Arnold, who was attempting to punt, into the end zone. Arnold ran the ball out to the ten from where Shawnee scored two plays later.

Lovely Barbara Holden, chosen by the Plainsmen to reign as '53 football queen, was crowned at halftime by co-captain Richard Harman.

Starting strong in the third quarter, the Plainsman attack died down as before with Shawnee recovering an Enid fumble. Three times the outweighed Enid line held against the Shawnee scoring threat within the one-foot-line and, with a 5-yard Wolfpack penalty, appeared able to prevent a third TD, but on the fourth down Tommie Hall crossed the goal.

A serious Enid scoring threat that failed to materialize began with an 18-yard pass, Ingram to Dennis, from the Shawnee 49, and fell through when an aerial into the end zone by Arnold was knocked back across the line by a Shawnee defender. FINAL SCORE: ENID 0—SHAWNEE 21.

Smothered by the Central Cardinals' attack, the Plainsmen suffered their second loss of the season. The Cardinals struck first with two quick TD's in the first quarter and dominated play throughout the game. Enid did not score until well into the second period, running out three downs within the Central nine and finally completing a short toss from Holden to Dykes in the end zone.

Within 30 seconds after the kickoff, Central's Richard Parris raced 58 yards to touchdown territory. Enid's only other touchdown also came in the second stanza when fullback Rooky Dykes charged four yards over the line.

Gerald McPhail, ace back of the Cardinals, accounted for the final two TD's, one in the third period and the last early in the fourth. Johnny Pellow's 17-yard touchdown run late in the final quarter was recalled with a penalty, ending any possible scoring threat. FINAL SCORE: ENID 12—CENTRAL 35.

the fighting Enid eleven held top-rated Capitol Hill to one touchdown in the first three periods, finally bowing to overwhelming power in the last two minutes of the final quarter.

With 2:01 remaining in the half, the Redskins began a relentless march from their own twenty to the Enid four where the Plainsmen line held firmly for three plays only to have halfback James Lary cross outside tackle and put the Hilltoppers in the lead.

In the closing quarter, Capitol Hill required 14 plays to move 67 yards against the stubborn Enid defense. Chuck Page, who sparked the visitors' attack, handed off to Carl Slayton who traveled 17 yards to the goal line untouched. Ten seconds left in the game and Page fired a sharp 28-yard pass to Slayton in the end zone, just beating the closing buzzer. FINAL SCORE: ENID 0—CAPITOL HILL 19.

The old bugaboo of extra points tripped up the Plainsmen as they lost their fourth straight game to an inspired bunch of Wildcats in a thriller at Ponca City.

After a scoreless first quarter, Enid quarterback Johnny Pellow took a Ponca City pitchout and left the surprised Wildcats staring after him as he raced 65 yards to tally. Ponca City retaliated in equally unexpected fashion when Wildcat tackle Ray Boring intercepted Pellow's pass on the Enid 27 and went over standing up. With 3:55 gone in the third quarter Duane Roady, left half, gave Ponca the edge when he took a direct pass from center and took off around end for a beautiful 86-yard run.

Wasting no time in regaining lost ground, Bill McDaniel took the kickoff and returned it all the way for 79 yards and six points. Down's kick was wide, giving Ponca City the one-point edge that proved fatal to Enid hopes.

Early in the fourth period, a jump pass to DeBusk sent him over standing up for the final score. FINAL SCORE: ENID 20—PONCA CITY 21.

Enid took off to a slow start, then gathered momentum and led at one point only to be snowed under by an avalanche of Classen touchdowns, losing their fifth consecutive game. Thirteen points behind after the first quarter, the Plainsmen came back on the strength of Pellow's two TD's to tie the score early in the second stanza. It was Pellow again as the Blue and White took the lead only to be overtaken by the Comets in the three minutes remaining in the half.

The third period saw only one touchdown, but it signalled the end of the Plainsmen's chances as Classen led 27-20 going into the final quarter.

Two minutes into the fourth period, the ceaseless battering on the Enid line began to tell as the Comets scored at the end of a sustained drive then added another TD on a seven-yard plunge climaxing a second long drive. A third fourth-quarter counter was made on a 12-yard sprint to pay dirt. Just for good measure, a two-yard plunge through the center of the line was good for the final effort. FINAL SCORE: ENID 20—CLASSEN 54.

The season's smallest crowd sat in 36 degree weather for more than two full quarters before seeing either Enid or Northeast cross the goal line. All things considered though, it was worthwhile for the 500 most ardent or most hardy fans who remained as Enid broke its long losing streak at Viking expense.

After a prolonged Enid drive fell short, the ball changed hands twice within striking distance of the goal. Then in a display of fancy ball handling, Pellow pitched out to Arnold who faked and passed to McDaniel, complete for a TD.

Not to be outdone, Northeast's John Delaney returned the kickoff 86 yards to tie the game. Enid hit again with Pellow calling a keeper twisting through the opposition for a 43-yard touchdown run. Pellow and McDaniel teamed up on a pass and, aided by a touchdown-making block by Bill DeBusk, ran the score to 19-6 where the third period ended.

Now in the spirit of the thing, Enid took only 1:50 of the fourth stanza to score on Arnold's 46-yarder through the center of the line. Recovering an Enid fumble and gaining five yards on a Plainsman penalty, Dwight Gibson, Viking fullback, broke away for a 64-yard TD.

Enid bounced back and used just three minutes moving the pigskin 70 yards to the final touchdown, Arnold going over on a handoff from 18 yards out. FINAL SCORE: ENID 33—NORTHEAST 13.

Lawton kept ahead of Enid the whole distance, scoring three times while holding the Blue and White to a lone tally in the closing minutes of the game. The Wolverines had complete charge of the ball during the first two periods. In fact, Enid had possession only five times in the first quarter and accomplished nothing.

Ending a 77-yard drive, Wolverine half Albert Terrill went right down the middle to the goal line 19 yards away. Then with 8:57 remaining in the half, fullback Darwin Porter went 32 yards over guard for the second Lawton TD.

Early in the second half, the Enid line was tight and Lawton made no headway, but it was to no avail when an Enid fumble which took only six plays to complete.

Enid's lone score came in the fourth after an exchange of fumbles left the ball on the Lawton 35. Bill McDaniel took over from there and clinched the score where it stood as the game ended. FINAL SCORE: ENID 6—LAWTON 21.

Jumping to an early 14-point lead, El Reno was overtaken and finally edged in a tense season finale that produced individual stars and satisfied fans' craving for revenge for a similar one-point defeat at El Reno last year.

Midway in the second quarter, Bill McDaniel practiced his specialty, tightrope-walking 91 yards down the sidelines on a punt return for the first Enid TD. H. L. Crites's conversion attempt was blocked, and later in the game this appeared to have been disasterous.

After a scoreless third period, Johnny Pellow opened the fourth stanza with a 54-yard TD run on the first play, Ray Downs kicked the extra point and Enid now trailed by one. A the deadline drew nearer neither team could make noticeable headway. Moving from his own 14-yard line with four minutes to go, the Indians' Jim Archer was trapped in the end zone and downed by sophomore tackle Keith Roberts whose sharp play earned him the Daily Oklahoman "Lineman of the Week" award and gave Enid a two-point safety which proved the winning margin. Fighting to protect their slim edge, the Plainsmen effectively held the Indians until the clock ran out. FINAL SCORE: ENID 15—EL RENO 14.

Twenty-eight Plainsmen earned their E, many for the second or third time. Lettermen included sixteen seniors: co-captains Victor Hayes and Richard Harman, Wade Arnold, who made all Mid-State team, Dick Geis, Ronald Wheeler, Bruce Roberts, Roger Franz, Bill DeBusk, Paul Day, Tim Holden, Rooky Dykes.

The junior class placed seven in the select group of lettermen: Ray Downs, Imo Cooper, Bill Athey, Donnie Weldon, John Pellow, Terry Ingram, Bob Davis. Sophomores Bill Lang, Keith Roberts and H. L. Crites also made the grade.

In the backstage department, managers Dick McKnight, Dick Godschalk, Sam Mood, Ken Richardson and Dick Scarritt and trainer Bruce Hinson earned letters for keeping the team equipped and on the field.

Summarized, the '53 record stacks up like this:

EHS STORY as they really are. We have tried to present an interesting, if unusual, critical report to the public of this magnificent opportunity to view an average American high school from the inside of its walls. We recommend that everyone patronize this motion picture. Remember its good points and bad ones, but most of all be appreciative of its influence and the big part it has played and will play in your lives. "Loud our praises ring" . . . "Here's to Enid High School, great is her fame," swelled melodiously over the football field at every home game during the football season. The EHS Band was out every game, rain or shine, to support the team and to entertain the bundled-up fans with precision marching and formations in every size and shape. The highlight of the Wellington game on September 18, was the crowning of petite, black-eyed Jackie Lindsay as the Band Queen. The band's president, Bob Snowden, blushingly crowned Jackie and circled the field with her and her attendants, Conni Pinkston and Marilyn Withers, in a dashing convertible.

On September 16 the band "strutted their stuff" western style when they marched in the annual Cherokee Strip parade decked out in plaid shirts, boots and jeans. Three days later they paraded around the square again participating in the Kiwanis Kids' Day parade.

The evening of October 17 a caravan of cars returned from Ponca City loaded with a bunch of happy kids. The band had spent the day at the Ponca City State Regional marching contest and had really "brought home the bacon" in the form of a huge first place trophy.

October 29 Governor Francis Cherry of Arkansas, a former Enid high student, came to Enid. The band met him at the Youngblood hotel with a musical welcome.

Sooner bound! The 125 musicians chartered three buses and journeyed to the Uni-

On the ninth of December, Oklahoma A. and M. held a band clinic at Stillwater. Kathy Gates and Richard Merritt attended this work shop. A month later Enid's own Phillips University had a clinic which 38 students attended. Then during "Cupid's month" (February), Kathy Gates, Richard Merritt and Mike Geis auditioned for the All-State band and were accepted.

March was a big month for the "Pride of EHS." Early in the month, the band played for a WCTU rally at convention hall. On the twenty-fifth of March the big moment arrived. It was time to present the sixteenth annual Symphony, Song and Swing.

The program opened with the "Star Spangled Banner." The first part of the program consisted of the heavier pieces, "The New World Symphony" and the "Procession of Nobles." Richard Merritt, the student conductor, directed "Fantasy on American Sailing Songs."

As the program continued, the numbers became lighter. "Vincent Youman's Fantasy," "Colorama" and "Arranger's Holiday" were specially arranged popular numbers. A novelty, "Nell, the Farmer's Daughter," was pantomimed by several band students and narrated by LaVena Park. "Night Beat"

TWENTY-SEVEN YEARS

American Education Week

OPEN HOUSE

—BY—

MONA DURHAM AND JOY ANN EDWARDS

"When shall we three meet again?" Perhaps twenty-seven years from now we'll be back during American Education Week to stand and look at our own senior pictures hanging on the wall, a tradition observed since 1914.

Open House, held November 12 this year, closed out the activities of American Education Week. Visitors to Enid High School that night were welcomed by Princpal D. Bruce Selby, as shown in the upper left and upper right corner pictures.

That evening the building was a center of activities and classroom displays. In the second left-hand picture are shown Charlene Hicks, Sandy Caldwell, Merlene Duckworth, Floyd Skarky and Gregg Bond reading copies of the Quill Weekly which were distributed by the journalism and printing departments. The third picture shows Mrs. Selby chatting in the office with Mrs. Nellie McCreary, Registrar, and Mrs. Nancy Nichols, Attendance Secretary. The lower left snapshot shows a girls' food class in action in their six complete, up-to-date kitchens.

Students' hobbies were exhibited in the library. Two of them are shown in the two lower right-hand pictures. Melvin Kirkham and Builder David Sneary pose with the miniature baseball park, while Dick Boyer, in the lower picture, shows observers his collection of insects.

The left insert was snapped in the Quill Office as Joy Ann Edwards looked over the latest edition of the Quill Weekly. Sophomore Ann Austin, in the right insert, gazes at a distilling apparatus setup in the chemistry lab by Marvin Myers, teacher.

That when there were guests no dirt could be seen.
You love all the students and they love you too,
But it's time to come home for I've a job for you.

JACKIE LINDSAY

Thunderous applause was heard throughout the education building as the final curtain rang down on the last act of the annual all-school play "A Change of Heart" by Marijane and Joseph Hayes. The play was presented December 3, 1953, by the Enid High School Speech Department under the direction of Mrs. Una Voigt.

The three-act comedy starred Jo Anne Hart as Jennie Dunlap and relates the story of a young high school senior who undergoes "A Change of Heart" as the result of her father publishing a psychology book in which Jennie, herself, is the model child.

Professor Dunlap, played by Mike Nicholson, goes on his way unaware that his model child is changing into a real brat. He fails to see his daughter as an individual and shows little understanding of her.

Jennie fancies herself in love with Brian Donnelly, a college senior, played by Dick McKnight. He advises Jennie to "be herself" instead of the ideal her father has created.

Jennie is unhappy because her friends are teasing her about the book and because she wants to go to a football rally. Her father says she must stay at home and practice for a piano recital, but Mrs. Dunlap, Elaine Neill, sticks up for Jennie, saying she once

Basketball Scoreboard

—BY—

DICK GODSCHALK

AND

DICK McKNIGHT

Playing in a conference in which a great percentage of the games was decided almost wholly on the strength of a home court advantage, the 1953-54 Enid Plainsmen basketball team wound up their Mid-State conference season in fourth place.

However, the first three teams in the conference all tied for first place, and the Plainsmen were only knocked out of the race after their defeat by Shawnee in the final Mid-State conference game.

Sporting one of the finest defensive quintets in recent years Enid wound up their Mid-State record with an impressive 8-4 record.

Getting the season off to a flying start, the Plainsmen traveled to Woodward where they trounced the Boomers 59-39 in a game which saw Ronnie Wedel and Bruce Medley as high scorers with 18 and 16 points respectively.

From Woodward, the Plainsmen went directly to the Borger, Texas, Invitational Tournament. In the opening encounter with Lubbock, Ronnie Wedel, with 17 points, sparked Enid to an easy 52-45 win. However, the next night told a different story as the Borger Bulldogs blasted Enid 48-38. With only three minutes remaining in the game Joe Morris bucketed two free throws, to bring the Plainsmen within three points of the Bulldogs, but the attack faltered, and as the final gun sounded, the scoreboard showed Lubbock with a decisive ten point lead. The Plainsmen carried home their second place trophy and began readying themselves for a non-conference game with Ponca City the next week.

With a home-court advantage for the first time in the season Enid overpowered the Wildcats 56-43. Enid's top scorer, Bill Moxley, with his 16 tallies, led the Plainsmen's .440 field goal percentage.

Clearing the bench for the first of many times during the season, Coach Paul Geymann even had "B" teamers in his lineup in the second bout with the Woodward Boomers. Enid completely routed the Boomers 79-38, with Jack Welch taking the scoring honors with 15 points. Evidence of a hard-fought battle was shown by the 65 fouls committed by the two teams, 36 against Enid and 23 against Woodward.

The first defeat of regular season play was handed the Plainsmen the following week by the Blackwell Maroons at Blackwell. Cold from the field all during the game, Enid scored only 14 of 62 field goal attempts to be edged out by the Maroons 46-40.

However, in a return match the following week at convention hall, the records told a completely different story as Enid romped by the Maroons 53-40. High scorer for Enid was Jack Welch with 22 points followed by Blackwell's Ernie Walcher with 11.

While most EHS students were enjoying their 16-day Christmas vacation, Coach Geymann and his wards were working overtime at the high school gym in preparation for the first Enid Invitational Tournament, held December 29 and 30, at Convention Hall. In the first evening's play, a cold Enid aggregation, matched with El Reno, managed to edge out the Indians 36-27. Enid's Jack Welch and El Reno's Bill Bruce tied for top scoring honors with 12 points apiece. The next evening saw the Plainsmen battling Classen, who had defeated Ponca City the previous night 38-34. The Enid team, playing a much faster and more aggressive brand of ball than the evening before, outlasted the Comets 61-52. Along with Floyd Skarky and Bruce Medley, who took scoring honors with 17 points apiece, hustling Jack Welch was seen all over the court, spark-plugging the Plainsmen's offensive drive. Thus Enid High was victorious in their first invitational tournament, followed by Classen, El Reno and Ponca City in that order.

Starting the new year off right, the Plainsmen downed the Alva Goldbugs 54-49, January 5 in the first game of 1954. In this game Jack Welch scored a tremendous 30 points, only six shy of the all-time record for Enid High School set by Jim Hurd in 1952. In a closely fought battle all the way through, the Plainsmen were only one point ahead at the half, and the Goldbugs again narrowed the score to a dangerous two-point deficit at the beginning of the fourth quarter. Ability at the free throw line was the deciding factor of the game with Enid scoring 14 of 20 and Alva 7 of 17.

Playing at Northeast the same week, the Plainsmen, cold at first, nevertheless improved enough before the game was over to clear the bench and run away from the Vikings 56-36. High scorer of the game was Northeast's Lancager with 16 points, followed by Enid's Welch with 14.

Baffled by the tremendous reach of Capitol Hill's giant 6-foot 10-inch center, Hubert Reed, the Plainsmen dropped their first encounter with the Hillmen 47-42, which also was the first loss of the Plainsmen for the 53-54 Mid-State campaign. Reed scored a damaging 14 points before fouling out early in the fourth quarter, although Enid's Bruce Medley was the game's high scorer with 16 points. Ranging only one or two points behind during the entire second half, Enid drew up to a 40-40 tie with only two minutes remaining in the game, but the Redskins proved too much for the Plainsmen in the closing moments of the game.

Leon Garr, scoring 15 points, proved the biggest threat of the evening to the Plainsmen in beating the Central Cardinals of Oklahoma City 51-46. The Cardinals never once managed to tie the score, but they closed the deficit to a dangerous two points with only three minutes to go.

Considered the roughest game of the year, the game with Norman meant twice as much to team captain Jack Welch, for he not only was the top scorer of the game with 13 points, but also had the honor and pleasure of crowning this year's basketball queen, attractive Christine Hartline. Enid, with a .247, hit the lowest percentage from the field of the entire year, but still came out on top of the 51-43 score.

Taking a breather from the tough Mid-State competition, the Enid team traveled to Alva, where they overran the Goldbugs, 57-38. Taking the lead at the end of the first quarter, the Plainsmen, led by Jack Welch's 20 points, kept it the rest of the game.

Using their home court advantage to its fullest benefit, the Classen Comets were able to avenge their earlier loss to the Plainsmen by soundly whipping them 54-43. Enid was not playing their best brand of ball, as evidenced by their low free throw percentage, only 15 successes out of 28 attempts. The loss left Enid with a 3-2 conference record.

Despite a slow start in their conference tilt with Northeast, the Plainsmen won easily over the Vikings, 66-50. The Vikings tied the score four times, but a .565 average from the field, combined with a .667 free throw percentage, put Enid on the top end of the score.

The largest crowd of the year, 2,200 persons, saw the Plainsmen slip past the Shawnee Wolves, 57-55, by virtue of an effective last-minute freeze by Enid. Always hot off the backboards, Ronnie Wedel sank 15 points to lead Enid's scoring attack.

In another close conference battle, Bruce Medley, playing his best game of the year,

BARBARA ROOS

This story is true. Nothing has been withheld. It all started when we (Saturday and Sunday) were working the day watch out of EHS. The chief called us into his office and told us that he wanted a complete coverage on the Enid high organization facts—the real facts. He wanted NOTHING but the facts.

8:33 A.M. We went directly to the library of EHS to investigate the Library club. We approached Mrs. Charles Lynch, the librarian.

"All right, ma'am. We want the facts, ma'am. Are you the sponsor of the Library club, ma'am? Tell us the facts about your club."

"Our ringleaders (I mean, our officers) were: first semester, Bonnie Pautsch, pres.; Betty Mongold, v.-pres.; Conni Klingman, sec.; and Barbara Roos, reporter. Second semester they were: Berna Jo Blakey, pres.; Barbara Roos, v.-pres.; Patty Garber, sec.; and Ann Kendall, reporter. We met every Wednesday in the cafeteria, and our activities were a 'get-acquainted' weiner roast, a teachers' tea, a Christmas dinner, a coke party, a dinner party, a formal party and a party honoring the Emerson and Longfellow ninth graders."

The remainder of the day was spent gathering facts on the rest of the organizations, and here's the report we received. Any similarity of names and places is purely on purpose.

8:45 A.M. We questioned G. A. Hemphill about the orchestra, and after routine questions were asked, we came up with this information: the orchestra's officers were Viola Mitchell, pres.; Mervin Moore, sec.; and Carol Bowers, v.-pres. Their two projects were an evening concert on April 6 and a district contest at Alva April 9.

8:50 A.M. The French club, Les Copains, was next on the list. After quizzing Miss Addie Fromholz, the sponsor, we found that the officers were: first semester, Bruce Hinson, pres.; Margaret Neilson, v.-pres.; Kathy Gates, sec.; and Mary Bouchard, treas. Meetings were held every other Friday during class period, and a French newspaper, "Le Petit Mot," was published every month. The main party of the year was a French dinner held at Christmastime.

8:58 A.M. Next on our agenda was the girls' gym to talk to Miss Pat Armould and Miss Lois Haskin on their organizations, the largest of which is Bravettes pep club. Officers were: Sandra Wilson, pres.; Frances Gammon, v.-pres.; Ann Earnest, sec.; Margaret Neilson, treas.; and Mary Lou Taft, reporter. Two trips were taken, one to Ponca City and one to Shawnee, to support the basketball and football teams. We heard a splash in the swimming pool and discovered the Aquaettes practicing for their water show which was held in March. A party was held after the show. The club sponsored intramural swimming meets and attended a high school swimming meet at OU. Officers were: Ann Earnest, pres.; Jackie Lindsay, sec.; Margaret Neilson, treas.; and Sandra Wilson, program chairman. A bounce of a basketball quickened our steps to the gym, where we found the members of the Girls' Athletic Association. Officers were: Katy Bunnell, pres.; Arvella Kremier, v.-pres; Pat Jones, sec.-treas.; Sharon Kellet, sports' manager; and Dixie Ent, publicity manager. Meetings were held every other

Thursday, and annual Christmas and Spring banquets were held. The club sponsored and officiated at all girls' high school intramurals

8:59 A.M. Next we questioned Earl Smith on his Physics club. Officers were: David Giltner, pres.; Charles Foster, v-pres; Richard Dixon, sec.; and Dick Godschalk, treas., for the second hour. Officers in the fifth hour class were: Bruce Medley, pres.; Carol Griesel, v.-pres.; Sally Caldwell, sec.; and Deanna Spickelmier, treas. Meetings were held every two weeks on a Friday during class.

The time was now 9:00 A.M. and the Chemistry club was to be investigated next. Marvin Myers, sponsor, informed us that officers were: Majel Michael, pres.; Elizabeth Marshall, v.-pres.; Elaine Neill, sec.; and Viola Mitchell, treas. Meetings were held on the last Wednesday of every month. Trips were taken to the Phillips University science building, Southwest Ice company, and the Enid water plant. Leon Cook, of the Southwest Chemical company, spoke to the group.

9:05 A.M. We Journeyed to the rooms of Miss Ellen Correll and Mrs. Lois Vance to check on the Home-Economics club. Marching Along Together

—BY—

MERILYN RUDKIN

A full schedule extending from February 20, 1953, to April 24, 1954, occupied the lives of fifty-four girls, namely the Enid Legionettes of Argonne Post No. 4.

This program started off with the participation of six drummers: Barbara Turner, Dixie Ingham, Janet Mitchell, Carol Gundlach, Dorothy Landon and Verlie James, in the World Day of Prayer at the Presbyterian Church on February 20, 1953.

This was followed by the appearance of the fifty-five members of the senior corps and fifty members of the junior corps playing both classical and popular music at the 24th Annual Phillips Concert held in the convention hall on April 10.

Then came the most exciting event of the year. Something for which all had worked for, so diligently—Tri-State! Their participation in this annual affair won for them first in the marching contest at Plainsmen field and a rating of superior in the Million Dollar Parade and on two bugle quintets.

Several engagements then followed. They showed their hospitality by playing for the Enid High Band at the Frisco depot when they left for Memphis, Tennessee, May 14. Armed Forces Day, May 16, they marched and played in the parade held downtown. George E. Failing made it possible for them to be his guests at the International Petroleum Exposition in Tulsa, at which twenty-six nations were represented. Here they marched and played in the parade. May 23 marked the day for selling poppies for the American Legion Auxiliary in order to help our disabled veterans. "Take me out to the ball game!" This could well stand for the atmosphere that enveloped the spectators May 29 at the Legion-Failing Baseball Park when the Legionettes played for this game. What could be more inspiring than the offering of a ritualistic salute on Memorial Day, May 30? This was played at Memorial Park Cemetery by buglers Marilyn Fraizer and Mary Dye.

May was an important month, as the new officers were elected. The highest honor of president was bestowed upon Mary Ann Brune, while the others followed in the order of their importance. Vice-president and secretary, Greta Lewis; treasurer, Dixie Ingham; bugle captain, Bertha Loucks; bugle lieutenant, Pat Fairchild; drum captain, Georga Nichols; drum lieutenant, Jackie Teague; and majorette, Della Dwyer.

Only one outstanding thing occurred in the summer, which was at the State American Legion convention held in Tulsa, August 8-9. Here the Legionettes played in street parades and concerts. As a result of their fine marching, a gold trophy was presented to them for being the outstanding marching organization.

September brought the beginning of a school year and with it the thrilling sport of football. The Legionettes showed their fine precision and skill by marching and playing with our own high school band September 6 and 21 at the Enid-Northeast and Enid-El Reno games. They participated in the Cherokee Strip Parade September 16 and the Industrial Show held at the fair grounds.

The election of new officers was the highlight of November. Those receiving offices were: President, Greta Lewis; vice-president, Bertha Loucks; treasurer, Dorothy Murray; Bugle captain, Chiquita Hosey; bugle lieutenant, Marilyn Fraizer; drum captain, Jean Pearson; drum lieutenant, Elaine Rogers; and majorette, Della Dwyer.

The biggest event of the year was the Christmas party held in the Legion Hall December 7 for the drum and bugle corps with students from A. and M. as entertainers. This past year 300 persons attended this party at which the most memorable part is the receiving of the senior pins, which the senior members cherish dearly for years to come as a reminder of the enjoyable time they spent while in Legionettes.

The Legionettes helped a worthy organization December 22 by encouraging Christmas shoppers to drop their donations in the kettles of the Salvation Army.

April first reminds us of one thing—April Fool's Day. But not the Enid Legionettes. They remember this as the twenty-fifth Annual Phillips Concert at which they played. This brought the date April 24 even closer. As this marked the trip of the Drum and Bugle Corps to Joplin, Missouri, for a marching contest.

New officers who have recently been elected are: Chiquita Hosey, president; Bertha Loucks, vice-president; Dorothy Murray, treasurer; Jeaneen Collier, bugle captain; Marilyn Frazier, bugle lieutenant; Jean Pearson, drum captain; Elaine Rogers, drum lieutenant; and Della Dwyer, majorette.

Here it is May once again—May 1954—and as last year at this time, a month of great importance. This year even more so because the Legionettes are going to receive new uniforms! It is like a dream come true, as they have wished for such a thing to become a reality.

All the Legionettes agree that all these numerous things wouldn't be possible if it weren't for their director, Milburn E. Carey, director of Fine Arts at Phillips University; their business manager, Nelson Newman; their Mom and Pop of the corps, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Books, and American Legion Argonne Post Number 4.

9:11 A.M. and we cornered J. W. Ri'ge to get the facts on the newly-organized camera club, the Shutterbuggers. Richard Harman served as president; Bruce Hinson, v.-pres.; Doug Meese, treas. Meetings were held every Thursday, and a darkroom was prepared by the club as their project for the year.

The time—9:14 A.M. The time had come to get the info on Miss Katherine Bales's Palette club. Officers were: Rosemary Mahaffey, pres.; Joy Ann Edwards, v.-pres.; Judy Grove, sec.; Luella Williamson, treas.; and Jean Corry, reporter. Club meetings were held once a month, and an annual tea for the Fine Arts' club was given in April. Also a trip was taken to Tulsa University and the Philbrook Art Center.

9:29 A.M. and upon questioning Mrs. Nancy Nichols and Mrs. Nellie McCreary, we found out the only social function of the office assistants was a picnic in the spring.

9:46 A.M.—the time for quizzing the Spanish club under the direction of Miss Mildred Montgomery. The information we uncovered was that the officers for the first semester were: Bob Snowden, pres.; Jane Carey, v.-pres.; Ann White, sec.; and Carol Shelp, treas. For the second semester, Ann White served as president; John Vosburg, v.-pres.; Janeen Collier, sec.; and Jane Carey, treas. Two meetings were held each six weeks. The parties held during the year were a Mexican dinner and a Pinata party. The guest speaker was Rolando Andrade of Mexico.

9:51 A.M. We asked Perry McCoy to give us the facts ("all we want is the facts") on the D. E. club. Officers for the year were: William Legate, pres.; Jerry Kemp, v.-pres.; Della Sloan, sec.; Martin McCoy, treas.;

Delores Moulton, historian; Donna Roberts, reporter; and Lou Ellen Holley, parliamentarian. Regular meetings were held the first Tuesday of each month, and activities highlighting the year were: an Employer-Employee banquet, state convention projects, and various money-raising projects. A three-day trip to the state convention and a one-day trip to Oklahoma City were taken during the year. Most of the guest speakers at the meetings were local businessmen.

9:60 A.M. and Mrs. Lois Vance was quizzed on Future Nurses' club. Officers were: Deanna Hudson, pres.; Jane Carey, v.-pres.; Betty Mongold, sec.; Martha Carter, treas.; and Beth McCaleb, reporter. The newly-organized club had nearly fifty members who met in the homes of doctors' wives. Other sponsors were Mrs. Robert Terrill and Mrs. E. M. Robinson.

10:10 A.M., so we made our way to the Bible building to talk to George Pratt about the meetings of the Bible club. Officers were: Bill DeBusk, pres.; Tim Holden, v.-pres.; and Conni Klingman, treas. Meetings were held irregularly throughout the year.

As we walked into room 319, it suddenly occurred to us that we couldn't understand Latin, and here were the Vergil students of Miss Addie Fromholz busily doing their translations. To our great relief they started talking English again. We received the following information from them: the officers were Tom Talley, pres.; Dick Geis, v.-pres.; Bob O'Brien, sec.; Karen Crowley, treas.; and Pat Thayer, reporter. Second semester officers were Dick Geis, pres.; Tom Talley, v.-pres.; Karen Crowley, sec.; Milton Andrews, treas.; and Mike Nicolson, reporter. Meetings were held twice a month in the fifth period Vergilian class. The main party of the year was the annual Vergilian club banquet.

10:20 A.M. Our feet were getting pretty tired of walking all over the school when we walked into the middle of a Delta Theta

Dear Diary,

The Vocal Music Department has been so busy this year that we hardly know where to begin, but we want to record our memories on your pages.

There was quite an increase in the number of students taking chorus this year, and did the activities come fast and furious.

The Mixed Chorus started the year by electing their officers. Sally Caldwell, the accompanist of the group for the past three years, was elected president and Mary Deal, vice-president. Mickey Webber and Patty McCoy were elected secretary and treasurer, respectively, while Jonna Provost and Dan Tuerman served the chorus as librarians.

Early Monday morning, November 23, the Mixed Chorus boarded buses headed toward Stillwater and the campus of Oklahoma A. and M. College for the annual Thanksgiving Festival. We sang, along with four thousand other high school students, through the day for practice, and then presented a concert for the public in the evening. The "Hallelujah Chorus" from Handel's "Messiah" was the feature of the program. Harold A. Decker, music director at Wichita University, conducted the festival.

Following the festival, work was taken up by the Girls' Chorus and the Mixed Chorus on the Christmas music. The Christmas season programs were begun by the appearance of the Mixed Chorus at the First Presbyterian Church, for a women's luncheon on December 9. The program was made up of the familiar Yuletide carols. On December 13, the chorus was joined by the girls chorus and the fourth, fifth and sixth grades from the elementary schools in presenting the annual Christmas Vesper in convention hall. The ninth grade choruses from Emerson and Longfellow Junior High Schools sang, also. The girls of the choruses led the candlelight ceremony which preceded the vesper. Winding their way through the auditorium with the glowing tapers, the girls presented an impressive sight.

Preparing a patriotic assembly took the spotlight after the return from the long holiday. The Mixed Chorus presented the program in their heavenly blue and gold vestments on February 12 at the education building. Between selections, Dick Mc-

Knight narrated outstanding tales of bravery by citizens of our country, and Elaine Neill delivered her winning "I Speak for Democracy" oration.

March was a busy month for Mixed Chorus. The eighth saw them singing for the Rotary Club; the ninth for a temperance rally sponsored by the Enid Ministerial Council at convention hall. March 19 found the singers at the district teachers' meeting. A variety of numbers from hymns to popular selections were sung at the Rotary Club and teachers meeting, while they sang "God of Our Fathers," "America Our Heritage" and "Battle Hymn of the Republic" at the convention hall meeting.

April Mixed Chorus journeyed to district contests in Alva as well as state contests at Stillwater. This gave the group experience for their program, "Time to Sing," held May 5. The numbers sung in contest by the Mixed Chorus included "God Is a Spirit" by David Hugh Jones and "Battle Hymn of the Republic" arranged by Peter Wilhousky. The Girls' Glee Club sang "A Snow Legend" by Joseph Clokey and Anna Temple and a Bach Choral, "Come Spirits 'Tis His Day." The Boys' Glee Club completed the contest numbers by singing "Pilgrim's Song" by Tschaikowsky and "Think on Me" by Alicia Ann Scott arranged by Marshall Bartholomew.

Highlighting the annual program was the crowning of the Mixed Chorus Queen and King. In the royal robes, Queen Sally Caldwell and King Cecil Bundy came up the aisle with the royal court following. The attendants for the royalty were Mary Cross and Jack Hayter, Pat Fairchild and Bill States, Patty McCoy and Jerry Parrish, Mickey Webber and Buddy Mongold. Following the crowning, the Mixed Chorus sang the Romberg medley in honor of the king and queen.

"Time to Sing" took on a South-of-the-Border accent as the Mixed Chorus and Girls' Chorus presented a group of dancers in ballet and tango to the strains of "Begin the Beguine" and "Orchids in the Moonlight." The Dancers held the audience awed as the colors changed brilliancy through the illusion curtain.

An unusual portion of the program was the "Stars on Parade" review. The popular songs were presented by soloists and ensembles from the Mixed Chorus.

Next came the Tri-State Festival on May 13,14 and 15. We were surely busy people those days. The Mixed Chorus and Girls and Boys Glee Clubs contested on Thursday, May 13, using the same numbers as were used at district and state contests.

Toward the close of school, activities really became great. Twenty-nine members of the Mixed Chorus sang in the Tri-State Mass Chorus. The groups sang at the May Fete, May 25, as well as the seniors singing for Class Day and the juniors singing for the Junior-Senior Reception.

Closing the year as a group, the Mixed Chorus sang at commencement. However, many appearances were made by ensembles throughout the year.

The soprano-tenor team, Jerrie Pinkerton and Vance Peek, was accompanied by Sally Caldwell on many occasions. Patsy Hathoot and Carol Carlberg appeared on several programs, also. A Mixed Ensemble appeared in a patriotic program for the AAUW as did a quartette for the water show held March 29 and 30.

I think you'll agree we've been busy this year, and here we are ready to graduate. The three years we've been in Mixed Chorus have been really fun for us as they have been for the other thirty-one seniors who won't be appearing with the Mixed Chorus another season.

That's all for this year, Dear Diary.

meeting. Their meetings were usually held every two weeks. A few of the guest speakers were Walter Scheffe; Captain Dave Henderson and Lieutenant Don Novak, from Vance AFB, a professor from M.I.T., and Don Clark, an OU professor. The club members were made up of students taking advanced mathematics, both trigonometry and solid geometry.

10:50 A.M. We were now to investigate the Enid Hi-Y's. Officers were: Dick Boyer, pres.; Bob Murray, v.-pres.; Jerry Wasemiller, sec.-treas.; and Ronald Graham, chaplain. The group journeyed to Oklahoma City, Norman and Tulsa to attend Youth in Government meeting.

11:28 A.M. and the newly-formed Proctor club was next on the agenda. President was Deanna Spickelmier, and the vice-president was Mike Nicolson. Proctor club members were guests at the student council picnic.

11:46 A.M. and we questioned Miss Ruth Moore on the activities of the Student Council. Officers were: Dick McKnight, pres.; Victor Hayes, v.-pres.; Sally Caldwell, sec.; Jo Anne Hart, treas.; and Christine Hartline, reporter. They met every other Tuesday in the bookkeeping room. They published the student directories and gave a party for all new high school students. Projects were obtaining a longer lunch period, taking care of a needy family, and instituting a proctor system.

11:57 A.M. T. A. Kennedy's D. O. club was next. Officers were: Sam West, pres.; Alvin Posey, v.-pres.; Certia Oliver, sec.-treas.; and Betty Smith, reporter. Meetings were held once a month. Activities were an Employer-Employee banquet at which Stewart Harral was the guest speaker, a Christmas party, a Treasure Hunt, and a journey to Oklahoma City to the regional T. and I. meeting.

12:00 NOON! 4-H Club was next. Officers were: president, Melvin Semrad; vice-president, Tommy Ogden; sec.-treas., Judy Grove; executive boy, Gary Bullard; executive girl, Kay Coleman; game leader, song leader, Barbara Anstead. Meeting in the radio room home room period once a month, the club projects for the year were having a paper drive and working for the salvation army. The group is sponsored by Mrs. Una Voigt.

It was 12:00 P.M. as we investigated the Activity Office's 10 members under the guidance of V. O. Marshall. As the duty of the students who work in this office is to take care of all incoming money in Enid high, we (Saturday and Sunday) spent a few extra minutes questioning these people. The only trip the group took was to Tulsa where they toured the Southwestern Engraving Company, The First National Bank, Webster high school, KOTV station, and the Tulsa World.

12:14 P.M. as we interviewed 24 Enid high debaters, (12 of which are lettermen). Debaters qualified for state are: Rooky Dykes, Elizabeth Marshall, Elaine Neill, Patty Phillips. Leading debaters in the class were: David Sneary, Elizabeth Marshall, Kay Dailey, Ben Harrison and Patty Phillips.

12:31 P.M. and we journeyed down to the training room where we found six very suspicious Football Managers. Three year lettermen were manager Dick McKnight and trainer Bruce Hinson. Second year lettermen were: Sam Mood and Dick Godschalk, and first year were: Dick Scarritt and Ken Richardson.

12:51 P.M. Robert Pyle's Machine Shop workers were very (honestly) active this year and did not need investigating.

Oklahoma Girls' State 1953

—BY—

MARY BOUCHARD

Girls' State, Oklahoma's capitol for teenage girls! The first step taken in going to Girls' State, for the interested junior girls, was to write a fifty word theme on "Why I Would Like to Attend Girls' State." Over thirty girls wrote themes and listed their qualifications and school interests, and from these thirty applications, only five lucky girls were chosen to attend the one week course in government at the Oklahoma College for Women at Chickasha. The five fortunate juniors who were chosen on their grades and their school activities were: LaVena Park, Elizabeth Marshall, Elaine Neill, Judy Cromwell and Mary Bouchard. Three hundred sixty-two girls spent a busy week beginning Saturday, June 6, taking part in one of the most memorable weeks in their high school careers.

Five Enid girls took a bus from Enid to Chickasha, arriving there at 10:30 that morning. There are twelve cities at Girls' State, each named after the last twelve presidents of the American Legion Auxiliary. Nineteen hundred and fifty-three was the last year that a city was named after Mrs. Beth Ball of Enid. Each of the Enid girls was placed in a different city and a different dorm. They didn't see much of each other after that, but it didn't matter because they made new friends. The twelve cities at Girls' State are divided into four counties.

Saturday was a very busy day, as they all were, and the girls spent most of the day getting unpacked. That evening, Ridge Bond, the star of the stage show "Oklahoma," sang for the teenagers and certainly made a hit with the girls.

Sunday all attended church services, had their pictures taken, and joined with their political parties. The two parties were the Boomers and the Sooners. Sunday evening twilight vespers were conducted by Rev. Bob Noever of Norman, and reports of the 1952 Girls' Nation, held at Washington, were given by Governor Mary Jo Deem and Carol Lackey. Following the assembly, the gay group returned to their respective dorms where the evening devotions, one of the most impressive practices at Girls' State, were held.

Monday evening a style show was presented by Brown's Department Store of Oklahoma City. Following the style show a group of entertainers from Altus AFB put on a grand show.

Each day a class in government was conducted by Samuel B. Evans, the educational director. Tuesday the state conventions were held to nominate party candidates. LaVena Park was put up for the governor of the Sooner party, opposing Sue Burns of the Boomers. The main speaker of the week was Dr. Kenneth McFarland, rated as one of the seven top platform speakers of the nation.

Following the speech by Dr. McFarland, the big moment of the week finally arrived. The election results were announced! Enid's own LaVena Park became the 1953 Girls' State governor, and the crowded auditorium of girls and visitors went completely wild.

Wednesday evening the inaugural dinner and the inauguration were held with the oath of office given to LaVena by Vice-chief Justice N. G. Johnson of the State Supreme Court. The Enid girls were very proud of LaVena, and that night, following the inauguration, a reception was held in the union ballroom.

The offices of the other Enid girls were: Elizabeth Marshall, runner-up for lieutenant governor; Elaine Neill, state senator; Judy Cromwell, state county officer; and Mary Bouchard, county secretary and secretary of the State Insurance Board.

Thursday a joint session of the House and Senate was held in the afternoon, and the activities of the courts were explained by Judge John Brett. A picnic supper and county meeting were held Thursday evening, and radio station KWOC broadcast the talent show held Thursday.

The days seemed to fly, but Friday was the night for the annual Boys' State-Girls' State dance. Fourteen bus loads of boys, complete with a police escort, came from Norman for the dance. The OCW orchestra played for the dance that evening.

Saturday ended the glorious week, and at the final assembly, the girls were presented their certificates and the Girls' Nation repre-representatives, LaVena Park and Jane Bailey were announced. The colors were retired at 11 o'clock Saturday morning, and with the spirited singing of "Oklahoma," Girls' State 1953 came to a close. The Girls' State representatives from Enid are deeply indebted to the American Legion Auxiliary and to their individual sponsoring organizations. All wish that every girl could attend a Girls' State as wonderful as that of 1953 in which they could share with others the true spirit of democracy and Americanism that these five girls did.

Umm good! Seven vivacious cheer leaders, Jo Ellen Barnes, Frances Gammon, Jo Anne Hart, Linda Robbins, Carol Cashion, Patty Phillips and Anne Headlee are eating quarts of delicious Peerless ice cream.

Speech Trophies

—BY—

SUE HEISERMAN

The Speech Department under the direction of Mrs. Una Lee Voigt can surely mark the '53-'54 school session a successful one. Sophomore speech classes enrolled seventy-six in foundation speech work taught by Mrs. Delyte Poindexter with these classes participating in assemblies and American Legion and safety contests.

During the year the radio classes presented 135 daily broadcasts and twelve programs dealing with American Education Week and school activities for local stations.

One hundred and seven radio students entered the "I Speak for Democracy" radio contest sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Chairman Robert Wood of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, judged forty-seven students superior. Elaine Neill received a $25 bond for winning first place in county. Going on to state contests, Elaine placed first over 4,464 other high school students. For this she was presented a television set and a trip to Williamsburg, Virginia.

The speechsters left their daily activities on November 6 to attend the N.F.L. Speech Laboratory at OU. Elizabeth Marshall was chosen as delegate to participate in three rounds of discussion, extemporaneous speaking, and three rounds of debate. Dick McKnight and Elaine Neill were delegates to the assembly with David Sneary, alternate. Those who took work to be analyzed were Karen Crowley, Mary Helen Callas, Bert Bucher, Rooky Dykes, Sue Heiserman and Melvin Semrad.

The first tournament of the year was held at Phillips University. Those placing were:

Conni Pinkston, first in dramatic reading; Jo Anne Hart, second in humorous reading; Rooky Dykes, third in public address and original oratory; Elizabeth Marshall, second in extemporaneous speaking; and Pat Phillips, third in extemporaneous speaking.

Elizabeth Marshall and Elaine Neill won three debates in the preliminaries and advanced to the finals. Pat Phillips, Melvin Semrad and Harry Nelson of the B team won two debates.

Time was taken to present the all-school play "Change of Heart" on December 3.

Again the students prepared for tournament and brought back two firsts from the Classen Tournament held January 9. Those taking firsts were LaVena Park in dramatic reading and Rooky Dykes in public address.

Enid was chosen to hold the Cimarron Valley Intact Speech NFL Tournament January 29 and 30. Fifty-four of Enid's businessmen, lawyers, patrons, and Phillips students served as judges. Towns participating in the tournament were Pawnee, Blackwell, Ponca City, Cushing and Enid.

Enid did quite well during this tournament by winning first and second medals and keeping the sweepstakes trophy. Those placing in the tournament were Rooky Dykes in public address and original oratory, Elizabeth Marshall in poetry and girls' extemporaneous speaking, LaVena Park in humorous reading, Bert Bucher in boys' radio, Sandra Wilson in girls' radio, and Pat Phillips in after-dinner speaking. The A debate team composed of Elizabeth Marshall and Elaine Neill won the debate finals.

Again contests were forgotten as the junior class prepared for their play "Gabriel Blow Your Horn."

The speech classes again settled down to real work as the northwestern contest at Alva came nearer. The work was well rewarded with these people placing: Bert Bucher, first in discussion; Rooky Dykes, first in radio; Joy Ann Edwards, second in radio; Kay Dailey, second in girls' extemporaneous speaking; Sandra Wilson, second in humorous reading; Pat Phillips, third in girls' extemporaneous speaking; and Dan Mackey, third in dramatic reading. In debate Pat Phillips won from Rooky Dykes.

Enid High School Speech teams won 198 National Forensic League contest points at the Panhandle A. and M. Speech Tournament Friday and Saturday, March 19 and 20.

Those placing were: Elizabeth Marshall, first in original oratory; Bert Bucher, third in public address; Dan Mackey, second in dramatic reading and third in poetry; and Melvin Semrad, second in radio.

Rooky Dykes and Elizabeth Marshall went to the semi-finals in debate.

Elizabeth Marshall, Bert Bucher and Dan Mackey were guest speakers at Guymon's radio station.

The state contests were held April 13, 14, 15, at Oklahoma University. Those qualifying for state were:

Bert Bucher and David Sneary, discussion; Rooky Dykes and Bert Bucher; boys' radio; Joy Ann Edwards and Sandra Wilson, girls' radio; and Sue Heiserman and Elizabeth Marshall, poetry reading.

Dan Mackey, boys' extemporaneous speaking; Elizabeth Marshall, Rooky Dykes and Sandra Wilson, original oratory; Rooky Dykes and Bert Bucher, public address; Kay Dailey and Elizabeth Marshall, girls' extemporaneous speaking; LaVena Park and Sandra Wilson, humorous reading; and Conni Pinkston and Dan Mackey, dramatic reading.

The N.F.L. contest at Tulsa University, April 2 and 3, was attended by students participating in oratory, extemporaneous speaking, dramatic reading and debate. Winners will go to Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, in June. Elizabeth Marshall rated first in the finals of girls' extemporaneous speaking, but third in final results and advanced to the semi-finals in original oratory. Conni Pinkston advanced to the quarter finals of dramatic interpretation. Rooky Dykes placed first in public address and reached the quarter finals in original oratory.

Competing against the best in the state, Enid high came through with flying colors. Bert Bucher placed first in boys' radio speaking, the second year for Enid to win this honor, Neal Jones having won it last year. Rooky Dykes rated first in public address and second in original oratory. Completing the list of three first place winners was Elizabeth Marshall winning in poetry interpretation and placing second in the finals of girls' extemporaneous speaking. Conni Pinkston advanced to the finals of dramatic interpretation and rated fourth in the state. Sandra Wilson completed the honors by winning third in individual events in the finals of girls' extemporaneous speaking.

The radio play "The Diamond Necklace" was awarded a superior rating. Members of the cast were Joy Edwards, Dick McKnight and Sandra Wilson with Bert Bucher technician. Joy Ann was nominated for the best radio actress award.

Despite tournaments and school, Enid high students found time to enter nationally sponsored contests. Forty persons entered the American Legion democracy contest. Elizabeth Marshall won county and $25.

The Knights of Pythias "Driver's Safety" contest was another contest entered by many students.

In speech, as in football, it is necessary to recruit an interest in students at an early age. Mrs. Delyte Poindexter, sophomore English teacher, sponsored a contest in every phase of speech. Sixty-nine sophomores participated, but only twenty-three advanced to the finals. When the results were announced, Bob Dundas was found the winner in poetry interpretation with Charlene Hicks and Connie Fisher tied for second. Sandy Barris rated first in humorous interpretation.

Oklahoma Boys' State 1953

—BY—

DICK McKNIGHT

For one of the most exciting weeks of their lives, six Enid boys arrived at the North Campus of the University of Oklahoma, June 6, 1953, to participate in the 14th annual American Legion Boys' State.

The schedule started with registering, getting settled in the new "quarters" for the week, and getting acquainted with everyone. Each boy from the same town was assigned to a different city and party, so he would not just associate with the boys from his home town, but would meet the other fellows at Boys' State.

After Dr. George Cross, OU president, and Dr. H. V. Thornton, Boys' State director, had given the welcome speeches, the events started that first day when the city elections took place.

An average day started at 6:30 a.m. with first call and lasted until taps at 11 p.m. About fifteen different activities, including swimming and all kinds of sports, packed the day with fun, study and excitement.

Dr. John Abernathy, Oklahoma City pastor, gave a wonderful sermon Sunday morning. Each afternoon was spent studying state and local government, in classes of about thirty each, with a university professor as the instructor.

Monday, state and county candidates were selected at the different party caucuses. Those of the Boy Staters, who wished to, spent the afternoon taking the State Bar examination. Three Enid boys, Charles Foster, Dan Mackey and Dick McKnight, successfully completed the exam.

Late every afternoon, almost everyone participated in swimming, basketball, volleyball and many other sports.

For the greater part of Monday night, rallies were held, speeches were given, and each party had its own rousing campaign, complete with bonfires, slogans, bands and posters.

Early Tuesday morning all elections were held and after a great amount of last-minute campaigning, promises and a lot of shaking hands, everyone waited nervously to see who were elected. The successful victors were announced Tuesday afternoon.

The six Enid "Citizens," as they were called, and their achievements, were as follows: Dave Champlin won the post of Secretary of the Boomer party and Clerk of the Senate; Doug Meese received the honor of being the Sooner party candidate for State Examiner and Inspector; Dan Mackey was the Boomer's candidate for County Attorney; Richard Dixon was elected the County Assessor of Risinger County; Charles Foster won the post of County Attorney of Risinger County; and Dick McKnight was elected to the House of Representatives and was chairman of the House Boomer caucus committee.

Wednesday brought a joint session of the Legislature. That night the group was entertained by a variety show. A real courtroom trial conducted by a prominent Oklahoma judge, using Norman attorneys and actual suspects, was the highlight of Thursday.

One of the biggest days of all was Friday when the Legislature completed its business in the morning. That afternoon the championship games were held in the various sports. The evening was the time scheduled for the long-awaited Boys' State-Girls' State Ball.

At 6:30 p.m., fifteen busloads of enthusiastic Boy Staters left Norman on their way to Chickasha. There the 500 boys, wearing their official "T" shirts, met approximately 350 attractive Girl Staters. The dance was held on the OCW campus, and everyone had a swell time. Arriving back at the OU North Campus about 1:00 a.m. that night, hardly anyone got to sleep before 2:00 a.m. because of talking about the really great time each had had.

Saturday morning was not a happy time for anyone, for that was the day for Boys' State to end. Everyone had made several close friends, and the morning was spent exchanging addresses, inviting the newly made friends to visit, and saying good-bye to everybody.

And as the homeward-bound car left the campus, all eyes were turned on a site which the boys would never forget. It was here they learned not only about good citizenship and how the government of our state operates, but they also met many new friends. Yes, they would always remember the week of June 6-13, 1953.

Tom Bates and Frank Stephens at Bates Bros. are getting Ronnie Wheeler and Rooky Dykes ready to "paint the town red" with that special co-ed next year.

Hail, Enid

Hail, Enid High School! Noble and strong,
To thee with loyal hearts we raise our song!
Swelling to Heaven loud our praises ring,
Hail, Enid High School! Of thee we sing!

Majesty as a crown
Pride, Honor, Glory,
Ne'er can thy spirit
Hail, Enid High Sch

High School!

rests on thy brow;
Love, before thee bow,
lie, thy walls decay;
ool, for thee we pray.

Hail, Enid High School! Guide of our youth,
Lead thou thy children on to light and truth,
Thee, when death summons us, others shall praise,
Hail Enid High School, through endless days.

MERILYN RUDKIN

AND

ELIZABETH MARSHALL

"Extra, extra, read all about it. Famous senator from Oklahoma to speak at Madison Square Garden today!"

Gosh, this sounds interesting, think I'll buy a paper and take a gander. Well, if it isn't a fellow graduate of '54—Liz Marshall, woman senator! It's been almost twenty years since I've seen her. I think I'll pay her a visit.

Look, her speech has just started. She picked a very good subject, "Let's Bring Back the Good Ole' Days."

Now that her speech is over, I'll go backstage and talk over old times.

"Merilyn, it's been so long since I have seen you that I really don't know what to say."

"And Liz, I never dreamed that you would become a famed woman senator and from good ole' state, to boot!"

"After all these years, Merilyn, I still wear that class ring so that I won't forget our class of '54. See, here it is on my charm bracelet! Ya know, I was just looking it over today when I noticed a little lamp on the emblem. I really didn't know it was ever there. It reminds me of Aladdin's lamp, see?"

"I'll rub and just see for fun if it is. Why look, Liz, small puffs of smoke seem to be coming from it."

"Merilyn, look a genie!"

"What do you wish, Mistress? Your wishes are my command."

"Well Merilyn, you brought him to us, so you make a wish."

"There is one thing that I have wished for since '54, and that is to see all our ole' gang once again. Genie, give us a magic carpet to see the world."

"Your wish is granted, here you are!"

Wow, what colors, pink and purple! Are ya ready Liz? Then "Rovin' Rug" take us to our class of '54!

"Say this country seems familiar. No wonder it's Oklahoma and there's Enid! Dear ole' EHS here we come."

"Liz, this school sure has changed through the years. How modern and spread out this building looks. And look at that swell stadium. Quite an improvement on that wooden one of ours back in '54."

"Outdoor swimming pools for warm weather!" Let's go inside and see how changed everything is."

"People, people, everywhere but ne'er a familiar face. Well, I'll be a class ghost of '54. Look Merilyn, there's Barbara Turner, Jackie Teague and Jonna Provost in front of that theater. I wonder what they're doing?"

"That's what you get for not reading the theater page, Liz. They happen to be the foremost drama critics of the New York Times, and they're on their way to the new play From Hither to Yon starring the new rage of Broadway, Jerry Pyle. Playing opposite him is the glamorous star of stage and screen, Conni Pinkston."

"Thank you Louella Parson, but I'm hungry." Let's go to that Italian restaurant across the street. It's so dark in here, I can't see. Oh no, there's Red Dixon. I always knew he would own his own restaurant. This place really has atmosphere complete with gypsy violinists. Mervin Moore and Larry Emmert are the handsome troubadors."

"Look, Liz, there's the popular socialites, Rosemary Mahaffey, Christine Hartline, Anne Headlee and Berna Jo Blakey. They took pointers from the movie, "How to Marry a Millionaire" to heart."

"Say look down there! Wonder what's going on? Looks like a bunch of people hopping around! It's the cross country pogo stick race; and look, Merilyn, it's Eddie Cohlmia, Frank Doty, Fred Oberlander and Bruce Webb.

"Look at all the posters everywhere, I wonder what goes? Why it's the World Series! I wish we had time to go see it. I hear that Wade Arnold is pitching for the Yanks with Paul Day, Manny Spaid and Tim Holden in the backfield for the Bums."

"Shazam and here we are in the nation's capital. Let's go visit our classmate, LaVena Park, ambassador to Limburger! A musical show has even been written about her, 'Call Me 2129'."

"Liz, let's listen to a session of Congress. I hear that Dick McKnight and Dave Champlin are debating a vital issue on the senate floor, 'Should Boys Wear Make-up?'

"While we're here, Merilyn, let's go visit the pentagon. Don't those men with all those decorations look familiar? Why it's Gary Benson, Daymond Myers and Bill Gaff. I knew they'd distinguish themselves ever since those high school days when they joined the National Guard."

"Let's get out of here before they sign us up, Liz."

Up, up, and away, magic palm and carry us to that vagabond paradise, Hawaii. Watch out! Is it bird or Superman? Why neither one, it's two jet pilots, Sam West and Bob Wuerflein, trying to break the sound barrier. Maybe they won't break the sound, but they'll break my eardrum.

"Well, here we are among the sheltering palms and cocoanuts. Look at those lovelies parading up and down the beach. It must be the annual "Miss Universe" contest. Patty Garber, Tomi Robinson, Sue Ellis, Carolyn Fronterhouse and Sandy Wilson really give meaning to a sarong. Oh no, look at those men with a tape measure. Who would be more perfect for judging this contest than the mathematics professors of MIT Doug Meese, Dick Godschalk and Gary Foster.

"I wonder why everyone is looking in the ocean? Why it's Buddy Mongold, Elbert Goodwin and Rooky Dykes beginning their daring trip by life raft to San Francisco Remember all the trips they made for Boy Scouts during high school? Well, aloha, Hawaii!"

"Well, look who I see sitting behind a sign reading Principal Ronald Petty. I always knew if he kept on being so interested in school, he would eventually go all out and be the head of EHS."

"The secretaries are different too! Joan Allen and Conni Klingman just couldn't keep away from those typewriters, so they decided to stay at EHS and make the best of it."

"Let's take a look at the indoor swimming classes. Well, if it isn't Ann Earnest and Marg Neilson. As you know Marg has been named the world's greatest diver by the New York Times, of which the famous Travis Miles is editor. Marg and Ann have a traveling Aquacade now on tour in Europe. Those belonging to the club are the old fishes themselves, some Aquaettes of '54, Beverly Ball, Judy Cromwell, Pat Fairchild, Janie Franks, Barbara Holden, Jackie Lindsay, Cerita Oliver, Mary Lou Taft, Mickey Webber and Wilma Weber, all still as charming as ever."

'Gosh, I'm getting hungry! What do you say we go to the cafe—I mean the automat. Put in a quarter, out comes your favorite meal complete with chlorphyll mints in case of onions. Liz, I'm finished. How about you?"

"Same here, Merilyn. Let's go visit room 219. Oh, no, look who I see hobbling around—but still that same old smile—Mr. Gott. I guess several really took that phrase, 'There'll always be another year' to heart. Look who's got the choice seats in the house —Alvin Posey, Nate Franke, J. C. Danahy, Bob Crandall, Calvin Miller, Jim Whitlock, and Jerry Kemp. I really feel for these kids."

"Well, so much for EHS. We must leave now and say 'Good-bye' to our Alma Mater."

"South of the border, here we come. The

"The Father of the Bride"

—BY—
ANN EARNEST
AND PATTY GARBER

"Just a simple little affair with a few close friends!" This statement began the chain of events that caused the Banks family to realize what every American family goes through when their only daughter marries.

The three-act comedy, "Father of the Bride," by Caroline Francke, based on the book by Edward Streeter, was presented the eighth day of April by the senior class under the direction of Mrs. Una Lee Voigt.

The play opens as Mr. Banks (Rooky Dykes) discovers that one of the vague young men he has seen about the house is soon to become his son-in-law. Kay (Elizabeth Marshall) surprises the whole family, Mrs. Banks (Sue Heiserman), Ben Banks (Jerry Pyle), and Tommy Banks (Dan Mackey), by announcing her engagement to Buckley Dunstan, played by Victor Hayes.

Disruption follows as disagreement arises about the size of the wedding and the choice of guests. Civil war is declared in the family as each member tries to include his own friends. This causes Mr. Banks' secretary, Miss Bellamy (Joy Ann Edwards), who is working on the invitations, to approach a nervous breakdown. A professional caterer is called in; a professional florist and furniture mover; dress makers and the whole bewildering procession so familiar on such occasions begins to take over.

In a fit of temper Kay calls off the wedding; but, of course, the lovers' quarrel is patched up.

At last the great day arrives with much confusion, and Mr. Banks finally realizes that his daughter is getting what she wants.

As the curtain falls, Kay and her Dad enter the church; she says to him, and he agrees, "Let's knock 'em dead!"

The cast for the play includes: Mr. Banks, Rooky Dykes; Mrs. Banks, Sue Heiserman; Kay Banks, Elizabeth Marshall; Ben Banks, Jerry Pyle; Tommy Banks, Dan Mackey; Buckley Dunstan, Victor Hayes; Buzz Taylor, Bill Patrick; Peggy Swift, Belva Clark; Delilah, Norma Stahl; Miss Bellamy, Joy Ann Edwards; Mr. Massoula, Cecil Bundy; Joe, Sam Mood; Mrs. Pulitzki, Kathy Gates; Blackie, Doug Meese; Pete, E. R Andrew; Tim's Man, Ronald Petty; Tim's helpers, Ronnie Wheeler and Bill McDaniel.

The Seniors also helping to produce their play were student director, Connie Klingman and Dan Mackey; stage managers, George Pratt and Leonard Latta; promoters, Elaine Neill and Bonneta Beardsley; scenery, Mr. Lou Sherman; electrician, Bob Clift; sound technician, George Pratt; properties, Mona Durham, Carol Griesel, Beverly Ball, Frances Gammon, Bertha Loucks, Joyce Unruh and Dorothy Murray; costumes, Jo Anne Hart. Luella Williamson, Mary Lou Taft, Zella Marie North, Jackie Lindsay and Anne Headlee; make-up, Mary Bouchard, Beth McCaleb, Beverly Diener, Wilma Weber and Judy Cromwell; advertisement, Barbara Roos, Bruce Hinson and LaVena Park; business managers, Dave Champlin, Bill DeBusk and Bill Johnston; and programs, Dave Champlin.

The usherettes for the play were Anne Kendall, Jonna Provost, Ann Earnest, Patty Carber, Carol Sears, Della Dwyer, Dixie Ingham, Pat Fairchild, Patty McCoy, Mickey Webber, Barbara Turner, Jackie Teague, Mary Deel, Delores Butler, Florine Chrisman, Dixie Orleans, Peggy Soucek and Marilyn Meek.

A hush falls over the eleven hundred students gathered in the education building as the familiar strains of "America the Beautiful" are played to the advance of the colors. The students, led in the flag salute by Student Body President Dick McKnight, repeat the Plainsmen's Creed and sing "Hail Enid High School," then hear the reading of the scriptures. All join in the Lord's Prayer, and sing "If I Have Wounded Any Soul Today . . . " Thus the students of Enid High School begin a typical assembly.

The school year 1953-54 saw fourteen assemblies filled with variety, entertainment and interest. The assembly committee was composed of faculty members Miss Pat Armould, Miss Ruth Moore, Mrs. Delyte Poindexter, Mrs. Una Voigt and Mr. Perry McCoy, and student council members Jo Anne Hart, Sally Caldwell, Elaine Neill and Margaret Luhr. Mary Deel served as song leader, Sally Caldwell as pianist, and the two upper class presidents, junior Bill Athey and senior Vic Hayes, as flag bearers.

The opening assembly of the year featured fifteen Vance Air Base instrumentalists who entertained with song and dance. The second assembly, a student talent show, was worthy of any TV program; the highlights we'll remember are Joe Morris's cornet solo "Sugar Blues," magician Bill Patrick's tricks, the duets by Jerry Pinkerton and Vance Peak, the songs of Patsy Hathoot, and the readings by Jody Hart and LaVena Park.

For the first time in many years, a teachers' assembly was given; the students learned that Mr. Hemphill plays a mighty smooth cornet, that Miss Morrow sings as well as she directs, and that Mr. Myers has musical talents as shown in his "pianologue." Miss Bales cartooned some teachers, and Mrs. Poindexter held a quiz on teachers.

The Travelogue assembly followed next with the three seniors who had been in Europe the summer before, Sally Caldwell, Dick Geis and Vic Hayes, telling of their experiences. Three senior boys, Rooky Dykes, Bill McDaniel and Jerry Pyle, gave a skit on their car trip over the western states, and Ann White, recently returned from Mexico, sang some Spanish songs she learned there. Ginnie and Carl Geis followed with a Spanish tango.

The Christmas assembly came next in line with Dick McKnight narrating the Christmas story. The art department contributed seven unusual paintings of the nativity scene, while the girls' chorus, with the boys' quartet, furnished the music. "The Other Wise Man" was given by Melvin Semrad. And, of course, Santa Claus Keeton finished off the program by handing out candy to all.

One of the most popular assemblies of the year was that put on by the Oklahoma A. and M. Men's Glee club; the young men held a contented audience for an hour and a half with songs like Cool Water, Shadrack, Around the Corner, Wimoweh and Blue Moon.

February 5, the date of the basketball assembly, saw Queen Christine Hartline serenaded by Vance Peak and Bob Dundas; then Roger Franz impersonating Coach Paul Geymann. The coach in his dreams saw the game with Capitol Hill played by ten girls from the gym classes in modern dance style. Then the real Coach Geymann addressed the students and introduced the team.

A patriotic program was the theme of the chorus assembly presented February 10. The program included No Man Is An Island, Where in the World But in America, This Is My Country, America Our Heritage and Battle Hymn of the Republic.

Genetics, or being well-born, was the subject of a speech given by Dean J. Clifford Shirley February 26. The well-known Phillips professor spoke with the students about how important genetics is. "Hitler tried to produce a race of super men by using the laws of genetics. We can use these same principles to produce a better race, only using a better method—Christianity"—stated Dean Shirley.

The March 12 assembly was enjoyed by all who like good band music. The peppy 37 piece 45th Division Military Band, directed by Milburn E. Carey, played a variety of numbers, including marches, overtures and novelties. Two EHS students and bandsmen, Richard Merritt and David Hemphill, are members of this organization.

The speech assembly, narrated by Connie Pinkston and Rooky Dykes, illustrated the fields associated with speech; dancing, music, acting and speaking. We'll remember the ballet "Black Swan" as danced by Margaret Luhr, the Champlin-McKnight debate on the question of boys wearing make-up, Jerry Pinkerton's "Secret Love," and the preview of the senior play. The assembly closed with Coach Paul Geymann awarding the letterjackets to the nine basketball lettermen.

April Fool's Day saw the newly-organized Stage Band performing—but no one was fooled when they heard the strains of Moonlight Serenade, Tenderly, or Stardust —this band could really "make with the music"! In addition to the several popular tunes, there were some featured attractions; Vance Peak singing September Song and The Saints Go Marching In, Gregg Bond doing a hilarious take-off on Dragnet, and the playing of a German band.

The Phillipian Choristers, directed by Morris Poaster, presented a program April 27 composed of sacred anthems, spirituals and novelty and popular numbers. Some we

Junior Class

The sands of time have sifted through the hour-glass. It is the year 2000: everyone seems to be looking over past accomplishments and happenings, so I think I'll just glance through it. Hmmmm—looks interesting.

What's this on the first page! A clipping? Why this looks like Bill Athey and Jerry Pinkerton, the president and vice-president of the junior class of '54. My, how they've changed! And there is Judy Grove, secretary, Pat Dennis, treasurer, and Emagene Jenkins, reporter. They seem to be deep in thought about something.

Turning the yellowed pages, I find a list of the 1954 honor roll. The juniors must have been pretty smart, back in those days, for Betty Jo Albright, Carol Bowers, Bert Bucher, Carol Cashion, Buddy Champlin, Karen Crowley, Marilyn Fraizer, Charles Gasaway, Carolyn Hardesty, Deanna Hudson, Emagene Jenkins, Phillip Jones, Louise Lavicky, Carolyn Muir, Robert Murray, Pauline Newkirk, Bob O'Brien, Johnnie O'Neill, Patty Phillips, Charles Ranck, Paul Rempel, Edna Smith, Allie Steers, Terry Torbett, Martha Unruh, Janet Wever and Linda Williams appear there.

And look! Here is a write-up on the all-school play, "Change of Heart," in which twenty-five juniors participated. I seem to recall that Mike Nicolson had one of the leading roles.

The juniors put on a class play that year. It was the first in some years. Forty-five juniors participated in the production, "Gabriel Blow Your Horn." Yes, here's a picture of Kent Corey as Babe and Karen Crowley, who had the lead.

Bert Bucher was one junior really interested in speech work; he helped narrate the movie "Enid City Schools in Action" that year in addition to playing a big part in the school radio broadcasts.

With fifty-three in chorus, thirty-seven in band, and eight in orchestra it seems the juniors were also quite musically inclined. OH! Here is a picture of Jerry Pinkerton and Vance Peak who entertained us so well with their singing.

Ben Harrison, one junior journalist, was elected president of the Oklahoma Interscholastic Press Association that year, for the 1954-1955 season, with Pat Phillips, Carol Cashion, Jo Ellen Barnes and Pat Dennis helping his campaign at the OIPA spring conference, March 8, at the University of Oklahoma.

The juniors evidently had their share of athletics. Look at this picture of the '54 football squad! Seventeen of the boys are juniors, and seven of them lettered! Basketball, too, had juniors represented on the team; eight boys played, and two lettered. In addition, three managers, Charles Ranck, Phil Jones and Jim Reim were juniors.

Phil Woolwine brought fame to his class as he won first place honors in weightlifting in the YMCA annual sports festival, which covers the territory of Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana and in the state AAU contest held in Tulsa.

Here are the pictures of the baseball and track boys; nine juniors are pictured in baseball, and eight in track. But let's not leave the girls out of the sports scene; the Girls' Athletic Association had seven juniors, and the Aquaette picture and story shows that none of the girls were juniors.

The business world won't suffer when the juniors graduate. With the DE and DO classes enrolling thirteen juniors this year. They are: Willis Babb, Paul Grizzle, Jim McGinnis, Jack Posey, Ivan Smith, Jerry Cone, Lawrence George, Wally Krause, Gene Kurz, Bill Vickers, Jack Walker, Mary Louise Blanchard, Barbara Burdick and Gary Bloom.

It looks as though the government won't do too badly either. Look at this picture! Here are thirteen juniors who were Student Council members.

Here are the new juniors entered after the junior picture was taken. A lot of them have become good friends of mine. Here is Eddie Patterson, Gene Hakel, Carolyn Cole, Mary Lou Skouby, Ruth Baker, Janell Wooten, Johnny Thompson, James H. Gungoll, Bonnie Breckenridge, Robert Hamen, Sam Bobbitt, Mike Doremus, Robert Fitzsimmons, Tommy Perkins.

I'd forgotten how busy the 1954 junior class was; I'll bet they really kept their class sponsors Miss Moyer, Mrs. Spencer and Mr. Meyers on their toes all year.

Well the scrapbook is closed, and the memories of that wonderful year are once again locked to be kept and remembered in other years.

land of the gay senoritas and . . . Barbara Arnold, Donna Barney, Bonetta Beardsley, Irene Beatty and Loretta Boling at the most famous night-spot in Mexico City, the Tortilla Terraces, doing the Chihuahua Creep and the Juarez Waddle to the twangs of 'Take-It-Away' Leon Latta and his Rustlers of the Range, Dangerous Don Atkinson, Cripple Creek Charlie (Bradley, that is), Wild Bill Davenport, Del Rio Don Grenz and Lorado LeRoy Barnes.

"What's that down there? It couldn't be camels!"

"No, it's the famous llama ranch of Richard Harman, Ronnie Wheeler, Bud Moore and Bill DeBusk. Remember how they always wanted to own a cattle ranch in Montana? I guess they got tired of cows."

"Let's park the carpet here beside this tree and see what the jungle is like. Hark, what's that noise? Let's hide, Liz, it may be headhunters!"

"Oh no, do you see what I see? It's Dick Boyer leading a safari in quest of the rare zenothaloin, in other words, the yellow butterfly! Accompanying him are Jim Adkins, Leo Balk, Joe Flaming and Bob Miller, research experts for the Jonesonian Institute."

"Hello, you all. We're on an expedition to find the members of our class of '54. Have you seen any of that gang?"

"Just down the trail Russell Fromholz, David Giltner and Bruce Medley are drilling for their 1,000th oil well."

"Well, it's time to be on our way again, adios, amigos!"

"Allons a Paris! Oh, I forgot, Liz, you can't speak French. But for your benefit I said, 'Let's go to Paris.' I love Paris any time of the year."

"Especially in the springtime. Just look at the floral vendors on the street corners. Which reminds me, let's go buy some of the exotic French perfume. What is this? Ah, the strains of 'Save De Bone' enlightens me wee ears and I know that ravishing music belongs to none other than David Hemphill and his Flea-bitten Five, Richard Merritt, Joe Morris, Bill Davis, Sam Clarke and Bob Hill.

"I guess they're here on their world tour. Remember how good they were in our high school daze?"

"Say Merilyn, look in the window of that shop, 'Les Habites d'Edouards.' That name does sound familiar. Oh yea, Joy Ann Edwards, our old journalism buddy. And look, the annual Parisian fashion show is just starting. Let's go in and have a peek at the fashions of Paris. Look at those Riviera fashions. Some chicks modeling, huh? Our pals of '54, Dixie Ingham, Anne Kendall, Patty McCoy, Sandra Jones and Miss Paris of 1974 herself, Donna Hughes, with her attendants Joie Murie and Norma Hobson."

"The French Riviera, millionaires, and romance! What are we waiting for, Merilyn? I hear that Monte Carlo is now owned by Charles Foster because he broke the bank! It seems that Charles developed a system with the aid of the slide rule in his algebra class. Look at the people lose their money; but those three seem to be winning! It's Betty Langford, Gloria Killian and Marietta Gary. They really have been in the money ever since they invented wrinkle proof skin cream."

"I'm hungry, Liz. Let's go eat at the famous Three Musketeers Club, owned by those smart second-year Frenchmen of '54, Mary Bouchard and Darrell Fowler."

"Well, look who is sitting with the petite French ballarina Arleta Howard—the one and only Jerry Parrish, American correspondent in Paris."

"Garcon! Bring us . . . Say, there's Cecil Bundy. He makes a good waiter after all the experience he had being in the Senior Play. And here comes the floor show. Number one billing is the world's greatest magician of all times, Bill Patrick, and his assistants, Sue Nebring and Mary Catherine Coonrod."

"Merilyn, here's the best one of all . . . our two EHS comedians, Homer Mitchum and Joe Maupin, and their rendition of 'Take Our Hands; We Are Strangers at Paris Dice'."

"Woops Liz, here's where I take a break to watch my favorite true-to-life mystery, Nagbet. Listen. 'I'm Howday and he's Dooday! we work in horseside. We saw a suspicious character sneak from the bleachers and head for a barred window. Our job—see that he gets a bum tip from our phony racing form!! How-de-doo-dee!!'."

"Oh, yes, all the world knows about this famous program, as it is produced and directed by one of our gangs at EHS, Lova Merritt, Sylvia Sampson, Juanita Skarky, Ruth Ann Slack, Sandra Record and Marilyn Withers. This show stars Johnny White as 'Howday' and Ray Sears as 'Dooday' with Terry Schale as narrator."

"Boy, you're really up on the events. Let's go to the Louvre and see what we can find. Good, we're just in time for the main tour. Look who's our guide, Dan Mackey. Let's walk through the halls and corridors and see if . . . Well, here's someone doing a barn in tempera. It looks like—it is—C. Sears. You can guess her first name: she always does it this way on all her drawings. She is the one who made the scrub-stroke popular. There's the famous commercial artist Tommy Seale giving lectures while on tour here in Paris and Jean Corry, famous portrait artist."

"Moulin Rouge, here we come. Have you ever seen girls kick so high? Why it's Betty Crandall, Dorothy Drennan, Mary Cross and Sue Collins. I guess those high school gym classes really made them limber.

"Now, it's time to leave Paris, but wait! . . . there is Delores Mitchell-Boerner, Kay Jantz-Boaz, Jo Ann Yates-Brewer, Delores Turner-Storey, Betty Brogdon-Rutledge, Phyllis Rathbun-Allen, Donna Lawver-Skinner and Martha Cholcher-Carter taking tours while they're here on location for the movie, 'We Love Paris.'

JUNIOR PLAY CAST . . . "GABRIEL, BLOW YOUR HORN"

Bottom left (insert) Congratulations are in order as dominant Karen Crowley decides that Love is better than ever. Left to right, standing: Paul Rempel, Alan Livingston, Camilla Woods, Ben Harrison; Seated: Larry Long, Jo Ellen Barnes, Jerrie Pinkerton, Milton Andrews and Karen Crowley.
Hillbillies (l. to r.) Carol Shelp, Pat Phillips and Kent Corey added much spice to the junior play.

"Gabriel Blow Your Horn"

—BY—

MARY BOUCHARD

"Gabriel, Blow Your Horn," a play written by William Ellis Jones and chosen by the junior class as their three-act comedy production, was a roaring success with Kent Corey taking the lead as Gabriel Pennington, a hill billy mountaineer. After many nights of tiring practice, the actual presentation took place Tuesday, March 2, in the education building at 8 p.m. With the able assistance of Mrs. Delyte Poindexter, the junior class play held its attentive audience for almost two hours of fun-packed laughter.

Karen Crowley played the part of the domineering old maid exceptionally well. Not to be outdone, however, was Ben Harrison who brought life to the role of a determined young man in love. Larry Long characterized the role of the suave young man in love's never-ending triangle to its fullest.

The cast included: Gabriel, Kent Corey; Zerusia, Pat Phillips; Daisy Mae, Kay Dailey; Miss Thelma, Karen Crowley; Janet, Camilla Woods; Eleanor, Jerrie Pinkerton; Mildred, Jo Ellen Barnes; Pete, Alan Livingston; Frank, Paul Rempel; Harold, Larry Long; Mr. Brown, Milton Andrews; Herb, Ben Harrison.

The production staff included Pat Bond, student director, and Larry Harmon, assistant student director. The publicity committee was headed by Kay Dailey, with members of the committee Pat Dennis, Mary Donnell, Coleen Anson, John Rempel, Carolyn Cole, Bonnie Breckinridge and Margaret Luhr.

Make-up was in charge of Barbara Wilkins, Patty Brogden, Deleta McGugin and Mary Helen Callas, while Gloria Loomis aided with the stage furnishings.

Jane Carey headed the costume crew with co-workers Shirley Smith, Terry Torbett and Jim Brown, while properties were in charge of Carol Cashion, Ruth Baker, Carolyn Muir and Carolyn Boyer.

Stand-ins were Larry Harmon and Rosetta Hoyle, and Deanna Spickelmier and Carolyn Hardesty were in charge of the programs and tickets.

The curtain and lights were handled by Jerry Wilkins, and the stage managers were Richard Gott, Emagene Jenkins, Pat Dennis, Judy Grove and Bill Athey. The prompters were Jo Albright and Ruth Goodwin.

After such a long list of names one can readily see why team work is so essential in the producing of a play, and how important each person's job is.

The afternoon of the play, Carol Shelp, who was to play the part of Daisy Mae, became ill. Thanks to Kay Dailey, the show went on, according to tradition, and the part of Daisy Mae went as smooth as though Carol had played the part herself.

The play itself told of Janet's romance with Herb, whom she had met at college, and after the real plot unfolded Janet's Aunt Thelma went back to her old flame, Herb's father. Gabe, an old seasoned mountaineer, was in charge of Miss Thelma's summer cabin in the mountains outside Ashville, North Carolina.

The whole evening was full of wise cracks and excitement, and the cast and the production staff did a marvelous job to make "Gabriel Blow Your Horn" one of EHS's best plays.

Ever since the beginning of Enid High School there have always been Sophomores . . . bless their little hearts! These are the "little" people who, on that fateful day of September, invade the extreme privacy of the upper-classmen and the peaceful atmosphere of the hallowed halls of EHS. They are a tribe of wild-eyed, energetic individuals, overflowing with joyous anticipation and bewlderment, destined to be of the mischievous variety, and the very soul of school spirit that lies within the student body.

Sometimes.. Sophomores.. are.. the.. nicest things that happen to high schools. They are born with a little bit of angelshine about them and although it wears thin sometimes, there is always enough left to lasso your heart—even when they are the loudest when you are thinking, the quietest at a game, and the laziest during study hall.

Sophomores can be sweeter (and badder) than anyone else in the whole world. They can jitter around, and stomp, and make funny noises that frazzle your nerves, yet just when you open your mouth, they stand there with that special look in their eyes. Sophomores are innocence in assembly, a nerve-racking nuisance, and just a noisy bundle of mischief.

God borrows from many creatures to make Sophomores. He uses the song of a bird, the squeal of a pig, the stubbornness of a mule, the antics of a monkey, the spryness of a grasshopper, the curiosity of a cat, the speed of a gazelle, the slyness of a fox, and, to top it all off, He adds the mentality of a Senior.

Sophomores like sympathetic teachers, snap subjects, assemblies, study hall, good grades, lunch hour, and holidays. They don't care so much for homework, inconsiderate teachers, after-school study, upper-classmen (especially Seniors), exams, and rocks like geometry, history, and foreign languages.

Who else can cause you more grief, joy, irritation, satisfaction, embarrassment, and genuine delight than this combination of Satan and St. Peter. They can disrupt your school, your dignity—spend your time, and your temper—then just when your patience is ready to crack, their sunshine peeks through, and you've lost again!

Enid High's "little" people were led by Floyd Skarky, their president, and his associates, Charlene Hicks, vice-president; Gregg Bond, secretary; Sandra Caldwell, treasurer; and Merlene Duckworth, reporter.

Assisting the class officers were the efficient Student Council members, Ray Asfahl, Sandra Caldwell, Merlene Duckworth, Rose Etta Durbin, Charlene Hicks, Earl Needles, Dempsey Roten and Hugh Simmons.

In spite of the usual discouragement and all-around hard times of the '53-'54 term, thirty-five Sophomores made the Oklahoma Honor Society. They were Ray Asfahl, Dick Autry, Sandy Barris, Marilyn Bell, Wade Chambers, Willa Jean Cook, H. L. Crites, David Dance, Barbara De Lisle, Pat Driever, Bob Dundas, Rose Etta Durbin, Carol Franks, Jerry Frisk, Marilyn Giles, Joe Hume, Lynn Jobe, Kay Kaufman, Kay Meibergen, Dean Montgomery, Earl Wayne Needles, Ralph Myers, Betty Lu Oakley, Donald James O'Neill, Elaine Palecek, Jean Pearson, Marilyn Patten, David Russell, Dick Scarritt, Cinda Siler, Floyd Skarky, Barbara Smith, Mary Edith Taylor, Tommy Thomason and David Werner.

The All-School Play, "Change of Heart," was a big success with the aid of the more dramatically ambitious Sophomores, Sandy Barris, Connie Fisher, Elaine Palecek, Cinda Siler and Tommy Thomason.

The class picture featured above was taken in the latter part of October, thus a few new members of the Sophomores are missing. These new students of EHS are Gail Henderson, Judith Lang, Dorothy Lansden, Barbara Oliver, Patricia Perkens, Delores Reynolds, Albert Rockwell, William Russell, Barbara Smith, Mary Katherine Taylor, Larry Williams and Bob Zimmerman.

On May 11, the Sophomores presented the final assembly of the year, entitled "Sophomoronics" or "They'll Do It Every Time." Mrs. Delyte Poindexter was in charge of the complete program which consisted of two portions. The first half portrayed the "Life of a Sophomore" in story and song, while a one-act play, "Sugar and Spice," was presented in the second half. "Sugar and Spice," starring Sandy Barris, Ronald Graham, Ann Hayes, Bob Holcomb and Rose Mary Jurgins, proved that more boys are caught by sugar than vinegar. Floyd Skarky, president of the Sophomore class, acted as the master of ceremonies throughout the entire performance.

Thus it was . . . we have the Sophomore class of '54 passing in review and in judgment of their faults and their achievements. We have attempted to present them in the way and in the estimation of the upperclassmen, who have benefitted from their antics and in some ways have been aggravated by them.

However, we shall give them the credit for which they deserve and say that Enid High's Sophomore class of '54 have brought about exceptional changes in our school, (at least it looks lived in!) "For better or for worse, we of EHS take thee—and welcome thee as the new Juniors of '55."

Orchestra

—BY—
VIOLA MITCHELL

Enid High's newly organized orchestra, under the direction of G. A. Hemphill and the assistance of James Brauninger, elected officers: Viola Mitchell, senior, president; Carol Bowers, junior, vice-president; and Mervin Moore, senior, secretary; to handle business for the group.

For the first time in nearly ten years, this forty-five piece organization presented a spring concert, which proved a success, and will become an annual affair at EHS.

Members of the orchestra have been kept quite busy this year. They participated in the annual Northwest Oklahoma Music Clinic sponsored by Phillips University; sent six members, Carol Bowers, Marilyn Patten, Virginia Merritt, Helen Jackson, Robert Murray and Viola Mitchell to the University of Oklahoma to audition for the All State Symphony in February.

Among several new undertakings this year was the exchange trip with Ponca City and Bartlesville with Guy Frazier Harrison as guest conductor. Also for the first time this year, members purchased blue sweaters, and each senior received a five-inch "E."

Enid High was also represented at district, state and tri-state contests by a string quartet and several soloists besides the full orchestra.

Twelve seniors are members of the organization. These are: Sandra Record, David Hemphill, Jo Ann Osborne, Nancy Conner, Richard Merritt, Dick Boyer, Bob Snowden, Sam Mood, LaVena Park and Kathy Gates from the band, and Mervin Moore and Viola Mitchell in the string section.

To Mr. and Mrs. Enid

Occasionally in the hustle of our everyday school affairs, we forget who it is that has given so generously of time and effort in order to give us the fine facilities that we have here in EHS. Without your willingness to help us and to stand behind us completely, Mr. and Mrs. Enid, we could not have accomplished nearly so much this year as we have. These are the reasons that we take this opportunity to express to you our sincerest thanks.

mammoth advertisement about the new novel by Helen Shiers, 'My Aunt Lulu,' a sequel to 'My Cousin Rachel.' And who is coming down La Rue de La Pays with her three French poodles Mimi, Fifi and Simone? An old EHS'er Nancy Conner, the famous dog-raiser and her two veterinarians, Bob Stewart and Bruce Roberts."

"Pip, pip, old chap, and we're off to England, land of tea and crumpets. We're just in time for the English open golf tournament. I hear the American foursome consists of Tom Talley, Bill Johnston, Gene McMahan and Bill Moxley.

Just a hop, skip and jump on our magic carpet, and we're at the Wimbleton tennis meet. Joy Tripp again walks away with top honors as she did at Enid high.

"Ye Olde Oddwad Shoppe," owner Squire Robert Hart.

Merilyn if we're going to find all our old friends, we'd better be on our way. Hey, watch out! Crazy men bicycle drivers. Why that was Dick Geis and Vic Hayes. Many people think they're eccentric after earning their first million dollars in the bicycle business, but we know better. I guess they never forget about their trip while in high school."

"Magic carpet, take us to Germany. I've always wanted to come here especially after seeing those films of Sally Caldwell's in our senior year. Listen to all the music, Liz. Let's park the carpet here. Why it's a real German band with our own Kathy Gates directing. Giving forth with some real hot Dixie land jazz are, Jo Anne Osborne, Harry Nelson, Sam Mood and Ed Poslick. Also, Mary Deel's vocalizing with a lot of that good old southern charm."

"Well, off we go and this time to Switzerland. Have you ever seen such high mountains? Sure a lot different from 'those Oklahoma hills.' Look at the crowd down there. Why there's our old friend, Bruce Hinson, the Hal Boyle of the Associated Press. Say Bruce, what's happening? Where've you two been? Today Lloyd Hurd, Jerry Jeblicka and Roger Franz, world famous mountainclimbers, are attempting to conquer the Matterhorn."

"I'm tired, Liz, let's spend the night in this lovely Swiss chalet. Why, Marian Brezina is the owner. Let's see who's registered. Sally Caldwell, the Liberace of the '70's. I knew the practice she received playing for the chorus would pay off. And here's Belva Clark's name. She started the international blue blood by snagging the richest man on the continent, Trash Khan."

"Wake up, Merilyn, it's time to be on our way, and this time our destination is Rome. Look Liz, at those women standing by the Coliseum. Have you ever seen anything so stunning? Why it's Beverly Diener and Della Dwyer, posing for the fashion magazine, "Tilt," edited by Barbara Roos. Ever since Barbara got a taste of journalism as Quill Weekly Editor, she couldn't get printers' ink out of her blood. The rise of this woman to editor of this exclusive magazine is indeed fabulous."

"Now for a quick jaunt up to the wild land of the Klondike. Ah, here we are. Just look at those hombres going wild over them-thar bits of gold. I just can't tell who that he-man is with all that grime of this place on his face. But that smile tells me. Yes, it's Worth Clark and his faithful assistants E. R. Andrew, Eldon Dittmeyer, J. C. Gorton and James Howard.

"You know, Liz, I've heard a lot about these saloons during a gold rush. Let's see how they operate. Strains of 'There Ain't No Gold No More' are coming from Dangerous Dan Jackson's joint across the way. Let's go in."

"And just look—here comes the chorus line—Frail Frannie Gammon, Jumpin' Jody Hart, Stompin' Shirley Stacy, Gorgeous Georga Nichols, and star of the show, Diamond Dixie Orleans. And that gal at the bar—some chick. Luscious Lou Holley and look at that crowd of "gold diggers" around her. Bruce Watson, Max Tindell, O. V. Larimer, Louis Lavicky, William Legate, Gary Lentz and Frank Poe, up here to stake a claim.

"What's this sign? 'Eskimo pies to make you feel young again.' Why it's Shirley Dee's Pie Pan. As you know her heart lies here in the Klondike."

"Let's go visit the dark continent Africa and see what mystery is in store for us there. Hear those jungle drums! And just look at that crowd of pygmies' oopin' gookin' and lookin' at that American siren of "How Dense Are My Jungles," Celia Wiancko and her stand-in Peggy Soucek. Just where is the hero of the movie Liz? Ah here he comes now. Bob Snowden and what a hero!

"What do we see here. An American missionary teaching natives of the Congo. It's Beth McCaleb, Iva Britton and along with them is Dr. Elaine Neill, medical doctor for this part of Africa.

"Say Merilyn, have you heard about the famous boa constrictor charmer, George Pratt? There he is now playing the Creep and look at that reptile slither. He's really gone all right and no wonder, he's probably looking at that bunch of jungle explorers plowing through the weeds, the famous jungle explorer, Mona Durham and her fabulous crew of monkey huntresses, Donna Wofford, Joyce Unruh, Marilyn Trekell, Norma Stahl, Betty Mongold, Bertha Loucks and Dorothy Murray, hunting desperately for their prey.

Ah, here is Roy Little, plowing through with tedious steps getting some ideas for his newest brain storm, 'I Bled 3 Drops,' a gory tale of how he encountered with a sharp knife while skinning an enormous ant, from Luella Williamson's "Wee Wittle Wiggly Wanch."

"But you know, Liz, Africa is not all jungle. The magic carpet has brought us to the thriving metropolis of Kenya. Say, Merilyn, I feel in the mood for fun. Let's go to that Ritz night club across the street "Tropicana." Well, I'll be, it's owned by Doris Hawkins. And there's Jimmie Hayter serving as head bouncer. I see the chief attraction is a juggling act by Karolyn

Endsley and Raezella Hermanski.

"Say, Merilyn, this is the place where they welcome newcomers by a special song sun gby torchsinger, Bettie Rinehart. It's like that old time favorite "If I Knew You Were Comin' I'd Have Baked a Cake;" only just changed a little to "If I Knew You Were Comin' I'd Have Milked a Snake!" Quite appropriate for this place, huh?

"I see by Kenya's paper "Monkey Murmurs," edited by Zella Marie North and Dixie Porter, that a Safari headed by Johnny Prophet is to arrive here today."

"Quite famous this safari, as all are involved in the task of pursuing the lost kangaroos that strayed away from Bonnie Pautsch's Kangaroo Kave in Australia! Walter Luckert, Majel Michael, Barbara Ludwig, Everett McCord, Tommy Newton, Rex Moss and Martin McCoy have quite a job; not to say the least of the great woman explorer of Africa, Elaine Livingston."

"Say, how did you like that movie 'My Gumbo' ('Mogambo')? Becky Sills and Della Sloan played striking roles, with Alvin Roelse and Marshall Rathbun, fabulous American stars."

"Gee! Wouldn't I like to own a few diamond mines around here, or anywhere for that matter! Several of our old pals have a share in these mines. Joann McGill, Anita Roberts, Elwanda Vogt, Jimmy Mansfield, Betty Stroike and Stella Saeger own all of the largest mine 'Glittering Grotto.' Another important mine is the sapphire one owned by Bill Martin, Marilyn Meek, Gaytha Noah, Alice Shipley and Betty Smith. What lucky people!"

"Remember how smart Shirley Smith was in dear ole' EHS? Well, she is now working with the African Government on the education of the youth here. She has several assistants working under her. William Newkirk, Margie Stratton, Bob Parker, Shirley Sidwell, Lois Patzkowski and Dale Simmons are doing a swell job here."

"Yes, and two other Americans, Ed Simon and Duane Simpson, are helping this government become more stable."

"Off we go again, magic carpet, and this time to China. Merilyn, let's ride in a rickshaw. Yoo hoo, coolie. Why Joe Brum, I didn't know you were opening your taxi service here."

"Let's eat there, Liz, at that adorable oriental tea room owned by none other than Darla Gurley and Wydema Howery. While we are here, let's have our tea leaves read to see if any other classmates of '54 are here. 'Little old woman, what do you see?' "

"I see Bud Kummel, H. C. Labrier and Jack Goodpasture owning a rice paddy from which Quaker Puffed Rice is made. I also see three of your friends, who have started a small revolution in Chinese fashion. No longer is the kimona the national garb since Mary Ann Brune, Martha Carter, Florine Chrisman and Velma Kratzer-Skinner have introduced the wearing of blue jeans."

"You know I read that just fifty miles away is the famous atomic laboratories. Robert Bull, Jack Carter and John Keeling deserve much credit for their scientific discoveries for humanity."

"And say, don't forget Joyce Coleman, Carol Griesel, or Norma Henderson, who received their Ph.D's at the tender age of twenty."

"India, land of mystic and enchanting things, here we come. Have you ever seen such a crowd of people? I guess we got here on market day, when everyone goes bargain hunting."

"Let's go to that swami over there and maybe he can tell us what happened to some of our '54 pals. Why Raymond Frederick, what are you doing here? Maybe you can help us find our pals of twenty years ago.

"I look into my crystal ball and see Bob Frantz, owner of the largest sugar plantation in the world. Not at all to be outdone is Jack Hayter, owner of the largest harem in the world. Each to his own brand of sweets. Just around the corner my mystic insight tells me you will find Delores Butler, Della Goodhue and Sue Heiserman dancing in the Cabaret Wow owned by Don Carlton and Vernon Fratzke."

"Thank you, Raymond, but we'd better be on our way, if we're to see all the sights. Merilyn, I heard that Martha Brewer, De-

Stage Band

—BY—

JACKIE LINDSAY

The maestro raised his baton, and for the first time music for dancing was provided by EHS's own stage band. Gerald A. Hemphill, director and sponsor, organized it to give band members, who wanted it, more experience in the field of popular music and to provide music for the various school activities.

The band is composed of 28 members who come once a week, after school hours, to practice.

Their debut took place in the boys' gym at the all-school sock hop after the Enid-El Reno football game. They supplied some "real cool" music for the slow dancers along with the "Bunny Hop."

On April first they presented their assembly with "Moonlight Serenade" as their theme and Gregg Bond as master of ceremonies. Joe Morris was featured on "Stardust" with his cornet, and for contrast Gregg Bond did a novelty take-off on Dragnet. Vance Peak, vocalist for the band, sang "September Song" and led the band on "Saints Go Marching In." Among the popular tunes played were "Jet, From Here to Eternity, Ruby, Laura, and Tenderly."

With the seniors excluded they played for the Junior-Senior Reception.

The stage band is composed of Bill Davis, Kathy Gates, Robert Murray, Phil Schrock, Terry Hitchcock, Robert Qualls, Don Beckwith, Bob Clift and Steve Cowden on the saxaphones, Joe Morris, Doug Meese, Paul Rempel, David Adams, Jerry Wilkins and Ed Poslick, cornets; Richard Merritt, Harry Nelson, Garold Henson, Monte Jones, John Craig and Charles Lewis, trombones; Gregg Bond, Mary Jo Langford and Milton Andrews, drums; LaVena Park, Bill Patrick and Emagene Jenkins, piano; Wally Clements, string bass, and Vance Peak, vocalist.

"Why don't you? If anyone in the world could, you are the one. Not many women have received the honor of being professor emeritus of literature at Harvard!"

"Our journey must end now, as we return to our places in America. We have had a wonderful time haven't we, Liz?"

"We sure have, Merilyn. And I will never forget this as long as I live. We will keep the memories of our class in our minds forever."

Intramurals

Boys' Intramurals

—BY—
TRAVIS MILES

Lack of interest plagued the boys' intramural sports program this year and finally brought it to a close. Basketball and football were the only sports in which the competition was completed.

The "Big Blue" won the football championship by going undefeated through an eight-game schedule. The boys composing this team who received individual medals were: Worth Clark, Bill Parsons, Jerry Dorn, Roy Douglas, Bill States, Sam Bobbitt, LeRoy Barnes, Richard Morris, J. C. Danahy, Jack Welch, Mick Abbott and David Hemphill.

The other teams entered finished in the following order:

	W	L	T
Sparkplugs	7	1	0
Colts	6	2	0
Pigskinners	5	3	0
Red Raiders	3	4	1
Teedees	3	5	0
Piledrivers	2	4	2
Panthers	0	8	0
Wildcats	0	8	0

The "Big Blue" also came out on top in the Basketball playoffs. Both the football and the basketball teams were from Mrs. Voigt's homeroom.

Tim Holden, Rooky Dykes, Bill DeBusk, Manny Spaid, Bob Clift and John Rempel made up the winning roundball squad.

Following the "Big Blue's" 6-0-0 record were these teams:

Wasps	5	1	1
Trojans	4	3	0
Hits and Misses	3	3	1
Printers	2	3	2
Helema Hornets	2	5	0
Kirk's Turks	1	4	1
Squirrels	0	5	2

This completed the boys' intramural program for 1953-54. Although a ping-pong tournament was begun, failure to participate brought it to a halt.

Girls' Intramurals

—BY—
ANN EARNEST

Intramural sports are looked forward to every year by the sports-minded girls of Enid High, for intramurals may be participated in by any girl in school. Girls who don't take physical education may organize their own teams to compete with classes or other teams.

The 1953-54 Girls' Intramural program got off to a fine start in September with a swimming meet under the direction of Miss Pat Armould. The winners of the meet were Judy Cromwell, Ann Earnest, Nancy Earnest, Pat Fairchild, Chris Hartline, Marg Neilson and Sandy Wilson.

In November, the double elimination volleyball tournament was won by the sixth period class when they defeated Shirley D. Ballew's team. The sixth hour team was composed of Beverly Blackwill, captain; Pat Dudley, Deanna Dulick, Lois Jesperson, Mary Pace, Lois Pitts, Rosalie Robertson, Stella Saeger and Donna Shaddy. Shirley D. Ballew's team consisted of Marian Brezina, Mona Durham, Deanna Fisher, Shirley Smith, Norma Stahl, Jackie Teague, Barbara Turner and Carolyn Walters. The All-Star team with Jean Pearson, captain; Teddy Beneditti, Sandy Caldwell, Kay Coleman, Emma Ruth Goodwin, Carolyn Hardesty, Chiquita Hosey, Greta Lewis, Shirley Smith and Barbara Turner also lost to sixth hour.

Basketball, the next intramural sport, received a fine turnout with eight teams entering the competition. Shirley D. Ballew's team championed over fifth period to win the tournament. The winning team consisted of Shirley D. Ballew, captain; Marian Brezina, Mona Durham, Deanna Fisher, Bertha Loucks, Norma Stahl and Joy Tripp. The fifth hour team was made up of Chiquita Hosey, captain; Carolyn Albright, Janeal Allen, Teddy Beneditti, Iva Britton, Ruth Ann Cox, Pat Driever, Jean Pearson, Sylvia Sampson, Margie Stratton and Anita Turner.

The badminton, volleyball, basketball and table tennis tournaments were supervised by Miss Lois Haskin with Katy Bunnell, Mildred Buschmeyer, Pat Dudley, Kay Ellison, Dixie Ent, Betty Galusha, Judy Grove, Pat Jones, Sharon Kellett, Arvella Kremeier, Ruth Moss, Donnis Oakley, Mary Pace, Lois Pitts and Delores Wedel officiating.

Let's grab a chair and settle down for a quick trip as the Aquaettes of Enid High take us on a tour to visit the high spots of this great country of ours. With Jo Anne Hart as Uncle Sam pointing the way on a large map of the United States, the Aquaettes began their fourth annual water show at 8:00 o'clock on the nights of March 29 and 30.

To give us a view of all the Aquaettes swimming together the girls paraded down the steps for the Entry, directed by Ann Earnest and Barbara Holden. To the music "This Is My Country" they dived into the water forming a circle centered with a star which broke into two lines at each end of the pool. The lines crossed as the swimmers reached the center of the pool, and turning to the deep end, they were soon climbing out of the water leaving us anxiously waiting for the first act.

Traveling to California the tourist always enjoys a visit to the seashore which was our next stop. Barbara Holden and Judy Cromwell gracefully slid into the water with a seal dive, followed by Sandra Wilson and Pat Fairchild with a back dive and Jo Ann Templeman and Jane Carey with a seal dive. They swam to the shallow end doing the side stroke and crossed with summersaults. Next they formed a circle and left the pool with the back crawl. "Seashore" was directed by Margaret Neilson and Deanna Spickelmier.

Next on our agenda was an old American version of "Jazz." Performing in this skit were Patty Garber, Pat Fairchild, Deanna Spickelmier and Mary Lou Taft.

The Wide Open Spaces is always a favorite place of every American citizen. Entering in this act were cowboys, Sandra Wilson, Judy Cromwell and Nancy Earnest; horses, Deanna Spickelmier, Jane Carey and Jackie Lindsay; and cactus, Terry Torbett, Mary Lou Taft, Patty Garber and Ann Hayes. With the yell of cowboys Margaret Neilson did a Jack-knife into the water and did various strokes to the cactus going into a summersault. The cowboys and horses swam to the shallow end executing various stunts and proceeded to kill the snakes. "Wide Open Spaces" was directed by Janie Franks and Nancy Earnest.

Uncle Sam's baton now pointed toward Manhattan, and eight dashing beauties under the direction of Emagene Jenkins, Wilma Weber and Arleta Howard, paraded to the side of the pool where they dived into the water. Going into a fast trudgen stroke they formed two lines and went into a kip and dolphin. As they did a sinker and left the pool, we noticed the faces of Nancy Earnest, Jo Ann Templeman, Suda Bobbitt, Arleta Howard, Barbara Holden, Beverly Ball, Carolyn Walters and Shirley Smith.

What could be more typical of Oklahoma than a football game. As the music began, we saw six dashing football players march out and enter the water. On the back team we saw Ann Hayes, Kay Meibergen, Chris Hartline, and on the Big Red we saw Jackie Lindsay, Janie Franks and Mickey Webber. Completing their calisthenics the players began the game with Janie Franks carrying the ball for the Big Red. No football game is complete without cheerleaders. Cheering, Emagene Jenkins and Terry Torbett came onto the diving board and did a cartwheel into the water and completed their cheering at the shallow end of the pool. The halftime ceremony was the crowning of the football queen played by Margaret Neilson. This act was directed by Sandra Wilson and Terry Torbett.

From the middle West we traveled on to New Orleans where we found Uncle Sam gazing on the festivities of the "Mardi Gras," directed by Christine Hartline and Patty Garber. The fun began as the paraders in their fantastic costumes pranced along the side of the pool. After the paraders, Barbara Holden, Beverly Ball, Arleta Howard, Kay Meibergen, Judy Cromwell and Suda Bobbitt disappeared, the queen, Cerita Oliver, took over. Swimming in the royal party with the queen among the beautiful Mardi Gras flowers were Wilma Weber, Nancy Earnest, Jackie Lindsay, Terry Torbett and Emagene Jenkins.

On we went to the deep, deep South where we found pickaninnies, a Northern Yankee, a Southern belle and a country gentleman. As the Northern Yankee, Mary Lou Taft crept into view, the three pickaninnies, Deanna Spickelmier, Janie Franks and Jo Ann Templeman scrambled over the edge of a large watermelon and were joined in the water by Mary Lou. Doing summersaults to the shallow end the pickaninnies played leapfrog. Coming to the deep end they left the pool with the butterfly stroke. The next attraction of the act was a duet by Christline Hartline and Cerita Oliver. The pickaninnies were joined by two other colored folk, Carolyn Walters and Shirley Smith, to swim around the old campfire to the tune of "In the Evening by the Moonlight" sung by Bob Miller, Elwyn Maddox, Bob Dundas and Vance Peak. This act was directed by Jackie Lindsay and Judy Cromwell.

As all Americans know "Blues" play a big part in our entertainment world. Every band wagon, juke box and discjockey is playing the "Blues." Participating in this skit were Ann Hayes, Wilma Weber and Kay Meibergen.

To end a great show Cerita Oliver, Pat Fairchild, Terry Torbett and Emagene Jenkins marched out to a fast American march. Diving into the pool they swam the trudgen to the center going into a kip. Swimming to the deep end with the back crawl they did a sinker. Coming into the spotlight now to the Washington Post March were 20 bathing beauties who dived into the water in pairs and did a dolphin followed by the side stroke. They then swam to the side of the pool while the queen was crowned.

And now came the crowning of the 1954 Aquaette Queen who was chosen this year by the OU swimming team through photographs. As the candidates were named, they came down the steps and sat on the edge of the pool. The first candidate to come out into the spotlight was Judy Cromwell nominated by Aquaettes. She was followed by Anne Headlee, La Junta; Arleta Howard, D.E. Club; Sandra Jones, Library Club; Rosemary Mahaffey, Les Copains; Elizabeth Marshall, Thespians; Patty McCoy, Journalism Club; Elaine Neill, Chemistry Club; Juanita Skarky, G.A.A.; Mickey Webber, Mixed Chorus; and Sandra Wilson, Vergilian Club.

As the crowd anxiously awaited Dick McKnight, president of the Student Body, escorted the queen, Ann Earnest, who was nominated by Home-Ec Club, to the float, where he crowned her and presented her with a bouquet of flowers. The attendants to the queen were Patty Garber, nominated by Palette Club; Barbara Roos, nominated by Shutterbugs; and Cerita Oliver, nominated by D.O. Club.

With the crowning of the queen the 1954 water show "Where But in America," came to an end.

On May 8 the golf season officially closed with 17 boys making the team. They were: Tom Talley, Bill Johnston, Charles Swartz, Gene McMahan, Leo Balk, Jerry Wasemiller, Richard Dixon, Bruce Medley, Charles West, Bill Moxley, Bob Crandall, David Sneary, George Ragan, Ben Harrison, Charles Gasaway, Steve Cowden and Doug Meese. Talley was the only returning letterman.

The Enid Plainsmen golf team, on March 22, started out its 1954 schedule nicely by defeating Ponca City on the Oakwood Country Club course by a 10-8 count. Tom Talley was low man for the locals with a 79 as he gathered 1½ points. Bill Johnston shut-out his opponent to add 3 points with an 84. Leo Balk and Charles Swartz added 1 and 2½ points respectively with 84's also.

Three days later the Plainsmen poured on the steam as they defeated Stillwater 8-4 at Meadowlake Golf course. Talley was low man again with a 76 as he shut-out his opponent 3-0. Swartz turned in the next best score with a 77 but was shut-out 0-3. Balk and Johnston shot 81's as they gathered 2½ points apiece.

On April 1 a return match was played with Ponca City at their country club, and the locals fell by a score of 2½-9½. Talley, for the third straight match, was low man for Enid with a 76. Next came Swartz, Johnston and Gene McMahan with 81, 85 and 88 respectively.

The next day Enid played host to Central at Oakwood defeating them 10-8. The Plainsmen were behind 5½-6 in regular play but took the match by winning a low-ball foursome by a score of 3-0. No player was completely shut-out to prove that it was a very close match. Talley again showed his skill by being low man for the locals with a 77 as he gathered 1 point. Swartz added 2 points with a 79. Next came Johnston with an 82 and good for 2 points also. Balk shot an 88 and tallied ½ point. Talley and Balk split low-ball with their opponents for 1½ points. Johnston and Swartz blanked their opponents on the lowball 3-0 to give Enid the win.

Enid went to Oklahoma City April 8 and played Cassidy at the country club where the Plainsmen came out the underdogs by a score of 8½-9½. Talley shot a 79 for low man honors while contributing ½ point. Swartz, Balk and Johnston shot 85, 89 and 85 respectively to add 4 points. Talley and Balk lost the low-ball by 1-2 but Swartz and Johnston shut-out their opponents on the low-ball to gather 3 points.

On April 12 the Plainsmen journeyed to Stillwater but were defeated by a 3½-8½ count. Swartz was the only player to win his match as he shot an 81 and scored 2 points. Talley again took low scoring honors for the locals by shooting a 75 and adding 1 point. Balk shot an 81 and added ½ point. Johnston shot an 86 and was shut-out.

Three days later the Oakwood course was the scene of the Mid-State golf meet. When the smoke had cleared, Enid had a total score of 681 to take second place. Classen was the winner of the meet with 668. Talley, who shot 160, was only 4 strokes behind the low medalist, who shot 156. Swartz, shooting 166, was followed by Balk and Johnston, who shot 176 and 179. The Enid girls' team, consisting of Katy Bunnell, Sharon Kellet, Margaret Neilson and Judy Cromwell, won by default since the only other team showing up was Classen and it being short one player.

On April 23 a quadrangle meet was held at Lincoln Park in Oklahoma City with Enid, Classen, Ardmore and Capitol Hill competing. The Plainsmen came out in second place with 348, 22 strokes behind first place Classen. Swartz was low man for Enid with 80 as Talley, Balk and McMahan shot 83, 86 and 99 respectively.

On the following Monday Enid played host to Blackwell at Meadowlake. Enid came out on top 12½-5½. Swartz was low man for the locals with a 70. Next came McMahan, Balk and Talley with 82, 83 and 84. Talley and Swartz lost their low-ball

About 50 boys answered Coach John Provost's call for a baseball club at the beginning of the second semester. After practice sessions they were divided into "A" and "B" teams. Assistant Coach James Stroup took charge of the "B" group, and practice was begun in an organized manner.

The baseballers opened their 1954 season play on March 15 at Garber. Starting for the Enid crew in the first game of the year were Walter Spaid, Tim Holden, Bob Davis, Wade Arnold, Daymond Myers, Terry Ingram, Paul Day, Charles Foster and Tommy Seale. The Enid nine were blanked by Garber 4-0.

A return engagement the next day at the EHS baseball field saw Provost's charges get into the scoring column with 2 runs only to be beaten by Garber's total of 8. Sophomore Bob Conklin began mound chores for the locals and was later relieved by "Pug" Gammon.

On March 19, the Plainsmen began their Mid-State schedule, meeting the Cardinals of Oklahoma City's Central High. The Cards edged past David Giltner's hurling for a 5-4 decision.

Five days later the Enid nine journeyed to Oklahoma City for an engagement with Classen High. With a 6-4 count the Comets handed EHS their fourth defeat of the still young season.

At Exchange Park the next day, Norman's aggregation presented the locals another pair of losses in an afternoon and night series. David Giltner was starting pitcher in the first game which left the Big Blue with the short end of a 5-3 score.

That evening, with Ronald LaPorte pitching, the totals were closer, but Enid was still on the bottom. The scorebook read: Norman 4, Enid 3.

It was Capitol Hill next on the list. David Giltner started on the mound but was later replaced by Ronald LaPorte. For the second time during the season Provost's boys failed to bring a run across, leaving the score 4-0.

On April Fool's Day the Plainsmen finally found their way into the win column against Alva with a 15-8 tally. Tommy Seale was given credit for the win, striking out only two men. This tilt saw one of the few double-plays of the year. Charles Foster and Edward Poslick combined talents for the putout.

Northeast met the Enidites the next day at the E-Club Park and defeated them 4-2. Bob Conklin and Ronald LaPorte handled mound duties.

Traveling to Shawnee for a doubleheader on April 6, the locals seemed to change their luck. With LaPorte the winning pitcher, the EHS'ers took the afternoon contest 9-5.

Tommy Seale garnered his second win of the season in the night game with Enid running up six counters to Shawnee's two.

The Warriors of West Wabash then rested until the OU tournament. In the first game they met and conquered Southeast of Oklahoma City 11-0. Seale was credited with the win.

Enid dropped the second match 4-12 to Byng from the southern part of the state. LaPorte was starting pitcher and was relieved by Conklin and later Giltner.

The return match with Capitol Hill was held at Exchange Park April 23. Chuck Page, formerly from Garber and believed by many to be the outstanding prep school hurler in the state, pitched for the Redskins. Seale pitched as Enid lost 4-1.

Phillips-Failing Park was the site of the second Classen game which the Blue and White lost 10-5. Giltner started and was relieved by LaPorte.

The Plainsmen thinclads opened the cinder season with a dual meet at El Reno. The Indians didn't seem to be much competition as Coach Paine's crew won first in every event except the shot-put, where big 260-pound Earl Johnson heaved the twelve-pound iron ball 48 feet.

The next outing was the Aggie Relays at Stillwater. Roy Dennis covered the century in 10.4 seconds with John Pellow third. The 440 and 880 relay teams finished second, and the mile relay team was nosed out at the wire and had to settle for third. Enid finished fourth in the meet.

The roughest of the tough invitational meets was next, and the boys were ready. At

A TRIBUTE TO OUR QUEENS

—BY—

MERILYN RUDKIN

The most coveted title,
Ever to be seen,
We at EHS know
Must be a Queen.

To reign with the pomp,
As the queen of today,
She must have the qualities,
Just what can we say?

Oh yes, attractive and sweet
Lead all the rest;
But personality is what shows
Which girls are the best.

We had seven queens this year,
One especially new,
Let's look at their pictures
And take them in review.

Petite Jackie Lindsay
Band Queen this year
Crowned by blushing Bob Snowden
Amid half-time cheer.

Pert Barbara Holden,
Our Queen of Football,
Honored by masculine Richard Harman
Among shouts from all.

Sparkling Chris Hartline
With that smile, always seen,
Crowned by athletic Jack Welch,
As our Basketball Queen.

Precious Donna Hughes
Was crowned Queen of May
By handsome Tom Talley
On that memorable day.

Charming Sally Caldwell,
Crowned by a king,
Friendly Cecil Bundy,
At the Chorus Sing.

Perky Ann Earnest,
Choice of the OU Swimming Team,
Crowned by our favorite, Dick McKnight,
As our Aquaette Queen.

Sweet Juanita Skarky,
Crowned at a Baseball Game,
By bashful Wade Arnold,
As our newest Queen to reign.

So, congratulations, Queens,
We wish you luck some more;
We will always remember you as
Our Queens of Fifty-four.

bucketed 19 points of Enid's total of 57 against Norman's 53. Thirty-nine fouls marred the roughly-played contest, of which the Plainsmen were responsible for 18.

After a first-quarter lead and a 36-36 tie at the end of the third quarter, the hard-fighting Plainsmen dropped a heartbreaker to the Classen Comets, 60-55. Classen's .706 percentage from the field and .692 from the charity line made an unbeatable combination, although Moxley's 14 points, Welch's 12 and Medley's 11 kept Enid in the game until the final whistle.

The home-court advantage helped the Plainsmen once more in their second game with Capitol Hill in which Enid was able to hold the Redskin's Hubert Reed to 12 points and win 53-51. Medley scored 18 points for Enid followed by Morris with 15.

In the return game with Central of Oklahoma City, the Cardinal's Garr fielded 24 points and kept his team within three points of the Plainsmen as the half ended. Morris and Skarky played one of their outstanding games of the season and led their team to victory by a score of 64-55.

A cold Enid Plainsmen quintet trailed behind the sharp-shooting Ponca City team until late in the third quarter when they finally overtook the Wildcats and with little trouble thereafter, won the game 44-37. Again, Welch was the high man in the scoring department sinking a total of 20 points while Skarky was second with 13.

Enid's final Mid-State conference game of the season with Shawnee, to determine which of the two teams would go into a three-way Mid-State conference co-championship along with Classen and Capitol Hill, was won by the power-packed Shawnee Wolves, 55-47. The Plainsmen were in the game to the last second as shown by the 36-36 tie score at the end of the third quarter. Enid then surged ahead at the beginning of the fourth quarter only to lose their lead to the determined Shawnee team.

Last on the Plainsmen's 53-54 schedule were the class AA regional playoffs held for the first time in Oklahoma, with Enid's Convention Hall being the site of one of the four state tournament centers.. Matched with Bartlesville in the first round, Enid quickly jumped to a 21-9 first quarter lead, only to see it fade away later in the game, winning the match by a scant two points, 57-55. The Wildcats played a very aggressive second half scoring an impressive 39 points while Enid could take credit for only 24.

The following night an inspired Ponca City team capitalized on 16 free throws to upset the Plainsmen 52-49, thus eliminating Enid from the tourney. Trailing until mid-way in the third quarter, the Wildcats forged ahead to win by a narrow but sufficient three points.

All in all, the Plainsmen fielded a total of 1,377 points in 26 games, or an average of 52.9 points per game, as compared with 1,214 points for the opposition, or an average of 46.6 for each game.

Coach Jim Stroup fielded one of the finest "B" teams Enid has seen in recent years, finishing up their season with a record of 17-2, losing only to Capitol Hill and Classen.

Basketball lettermen for this year were: Bruce Medley, Bill Moxley, Jack Welch, Charles Foster, Gary Foster and Joe Morris seniors; Terry Ingram and Ronnie Wedel, juniors, and Floyd Skarky, sophomore. Tom Talley, senior, saw much action at the first of the season and probably would have earned his letter, except for a serious illness which prevented him from finishing the season.

The squadmen who also played an important part in this year's impressive team included: Melvin Semrad, H. L. Crites and John Vosburg, all juniors.

Boys who helped the "B" team achieve its success and who are looking forward to being back next year for another Mid-State conference slate are: Gordon Snidow, John Pellow, Bob Dundas, Pug Gammon, Glen Cowsar and Donnie Weldon, juniors; and Ronnie Feger, John Docp, Gail Crawford, Dean Montgomery, John Marler, Bill Francis, Jerry Butts and Jim Carnell, sophomores.

The three hard-working managers of this year's team were: Charles Ranck, Phil Jones and Jim Reim, juniors.

PRIDE OF EHS

was the musical portrayal of a "city cop" as he walked his beat through Times Square, Chinatown, the Waterfront, Harlem, the Latin Quarter, and Broadway.

Near the end of the program Mr. G. Ray Bonham, past director of the EHS band, directed Irving Berlin's famous "Alexander's Ragtime Band" and brought down the house. The program ended with a march as the twirlers performed skillfully with silver batons.

For the second consecutive year the senior band members were awarded letters to put on their "Plainsmen" blue sweaters.

April 23 all the "student musicians" gathered together for the annual All-City Concert. Enid High was there with "bells on."

Then came marching season. Up and down the field doing right obliques and about faces marched the band every morning preparing for Tri-State. They entered marching, concert, and sight reading contests, besides playing host to 80 out-of-town bands.

The familiar strains of "Hail Enid High School" blended with the beautiful colors and spring evening as the sophomore and junior band members played for the seniors as they marched around the lake at Springs Park paying tribute to May and her lovely queen. The last performance of the band brought lumps to the throats of many seniors. As the upper-classmen stood solemn faced waiting for their diplomas, the sophomores and juniors sat in the orchestra pit playing for the 1954 graduation.

A year of hard work, but just as much fun and satisfaction, was over. The Enid High Band has chalked up another year of success; one of which they could well be proud.

A CHANGE OF HEART

enjoyed football rallies herself.

Frank Martz, the hep-cat drummer boy, portrayed by Vance Peak, and Robert Vourgholtzer, the boy next door, played by Dan Mackey, both fight over Jennie to see who is going to take her to the rally, but Jennie is just fighting to get to go to the rally, preferably with Brian.

To add to the confusion, Burt Orvis, Dave Champlin, and his daughter Dandy, Conni Pinkston, come to visit the Dunlaps. Jennie and Dandy begin plotting against Professor Dunlap so Jennie can go to the rally.

Brian is pinned to Carmen Stigdon, Anne Kendall, a college girl who stays with the Dunlaps. Carmen is a possessive yet fickle girl who steps out on Brian behind his back. Before the rally, Brian and Jennie have a heart to heart talk, and Jennie misunderstands and thinks Brian asks her to go to the rally when he has already asked Carmen.

So, as a last resort, Brian talks his roommate Clem Solotorovski, the local football hero who never dates girls, into taking Jennie. At the rally, she leads a dance as well as the college band and becomes the Belle of the Ball to the extent of getting her picture into all the local papers.

Many comical situations occur in the last act when numerous students, including some college band members, pour into the Dunlap's living room—cheerleaders, twirlers, and all. Clem comes last pretending to have broken his leg so the Professor will quit blaming Jennie for everything.

The climax comes when Jennie stands up to her father for the first time in her life declaring that the crowd in the living room making all the noise are her friends and not Brian's.

But all ends happily when they find out that Clem is just pretending about his hurt leg and will get to play in the next day's game after all.

Jennie is responsible for her father's "Change of Heart" when he lets his hair down and joins in the Bunny Hop with the whole cast.

The entire cast included: Jennie Dunlap, Jo Anne Hart; Professor Eric Dunlap, Mike Nicolson; Brian Donnelly, Dick McKnight; Mrs. Ruth Dunlap, Elaine Neill; Frank Martz, Vance Peak; Mary, Beth McCaleb; Carmen Stigdon, Anne Kendall; Dandy Orvis, Conni Pinkston; Bert Orvis, Dave Champlin; Robert Bourgholtzer, Dan Mackey; Ibby Bourgholtzer, Sandy Barris; Dean Peter Low, Ralph Myers; Mrs. Rebecca Low, Mary Bouchard; Clem Solotorovski, Bert Bucher; Drum Majorette, Belva Clark; Cheerleader, Beverly Diener.

The band members included: Bob Murray, Bill Hill, Doug Meese, Gregg Bond, Don Walker, Ruth Ann Slack, Richard Gott and Milton Andrews. The part of the radio announcer was played by Bruce Craig.

The smooth-running performance was due to the able sctudent assistants who were: Berna Jo Blakey, Wilma Weber, Janie Franks, student directors; Betty Crandall, Kathy Gates, promoters; Tommy Themason, Bob Clift, Robert Bull, electricians; Larry Harmon, Cecil Bundy, Sally Caldwell, sound technicians; Norma Stahl, Connie Fisher, Patsy Stapleton, properties; Gloria Killian, Karen Crowley, Pat Fairchild, Pat Bond, small properties; Mike Austin, stage manager; Joy Ann Edwards, Patty Garber, Sue Heiserman, publicity; Karolyn Endsley, Deloris Mitchell, Carol Shelp, Colleen Anson, Rusty Stephenson, posters; Jean Corry, Mary Lou Taft, Suda Bobbitt, costume artists; Wilma Weber, Luella Williamson, scene design; Conni Klingman, Ann Earnest, Jackie Lindsay, Frances Gammon, Judy Cromwell, make-up.

Usherettes for the play were members of the Thespian Club which included: Rosetta Hoyle, Suda Bobbitt, Joy Ann Edwards, La Vena Park, Carol Cashion, Ann Earnest, Loretta Clark, Pat Bond, Elaine Palecek, Cinda Siler, Patty Brogden, Zella Marie North.

Faculty advisors included: V. O. Marshall, business manager; Gerald Hemphill, band director; Miss Katherine Bales, art; Miss Ruth Scott, publicity; Lou Sherman, stage.

will remember are Bless the Lord Oh My Soul, What Kinder Shoes, The Woodchuck Song and Listen to the Mocking Bird.

Sophomoronics, or They'll Do It Every Time, was the title of the final assembly program of the year, presented by members of the sophomore class. Floyd Skarky, sophomore class president, acted as master of ceremonies. The first half, "the life of a sophomore," was presented in story and song; then came a one-act play, "Sugar and Spice," starring Ronald Graham, Ann Hayes, Rose Mary Jurgins, Bob Holcomb and Sandy Barris. The moral of the play was that more boys are caught with sugar than with vinegar.

Yes, the school year '53-'54 did have some mighty good entertainment in the way of assemblies; and as the students watch the new auditorium rise, they probably think in the back of their minds that many good assemblies will be there in the future. But no matter how many, each student can honestly say, "This year's assemblies were the best!"

May Fete

—BY—

BARBARA ROOS

The time: the month of May. The scene: a beautiful spring evening. The place: Government Springs Park, and the event: the 30th annual Enid High School May Fete.

The spring pageant is a tradition. One that all seniors look forward to and one that marks the near end of high school life.

The beautiful multitude of billowy colored formals, mixed with the beauty of the arched bridge, the waterfall and the colorful flowers and greenery, give the scene a touch of perfection.

The first act of the pageant is about to unfold. As the strains of "Hail Enid High School" fill the air, the beautiful Queen of May, Donna Hughes, with May Herald, Tom Talley, begin their procession. Next come their court of attendants. Jo Anne Hart, dressed in light blue, and her escort, Bob Snowden; Christine Hartline in pastel pink with Bruce Medley, Frances Gammon wearing canary yellow, and Charles Foster; Norma Hobson in foam green, beside her escort, Bill McDaniel; Juanita Skarky in delicate lavendar with Jack Welch; Anne Headlee, dressed in turquoise blue, walking with David Giltner; Ann Earnest, wearing jonquil yellow, beside Lloyd Hurd; Patty Garber in petal pink with Paul Day, and Mickey Webber in baby blue, escorted by Wade Arnold. The attendants are followed by the royal subjects of the Queen and Herald, the senior class of 1954.

With a fanfare of trumpets, Donna ascends her throne, where she is presented a crown of red roses, and the traditional kiss from Tom. The royal party is then seated, and the second act of the festival begins.

The may revelers' and the dancers' tribute to the royal party is a memory never to be forgotten. The chorus and band combined, give their salute to spring, as the beautiful harmony drifts over the lake. Nature has done her part, contributing the beauty of springtime. As the sun goes down, bringing Act two to a close, the royal party and their subjects leave the park, with hopes of the future.

Act three: Beginning. The Queen, attendants, and escorts, make up a reception line at the Legion hall to greet the seniors who are fast filling the decorated room. The May Fete Dance begins . . . and ends, much too soon, to close a memorable event in the hearts and minds of the Class of '54.

As cool as snow in December are these frothy pastel formals modeled by Anne Headlee and Karen Crowley while Jackie Teague and Barbara Turner watch.

A Year of Construction

—BY—

JOY ANN EDWARDS

This will be the door into a greater Enid High when the new wing is finished for school nert September. Standing at this door are Principal D. Bruce Selby and Superintendent of Schools DeWitt Waller, who have been busy all year with phases of planning and more planning that will go into the finished product.

Clockwise around the page are the scenes of progress as this year marched on.

Upper left of the inset is a view of the old wing disappearing from the face of the earth under the heavy hammers and tools of the building crew. Top left is the beginning of the new wing, seen as the skeleton rises, ready for the building to begin.

This, people of Enid, will be the new Enid High School, one of which the students and teachers and indeed all the people of Enid may well be proud. The cafeteria will be quite attractively finished with new equipment throughout with the teachers having a private dining room. The auditorium will have a balcony, a projection booth, and the stage will be large enough to accommodate any type of stage production.

This door, shown in the inset, will be the door to much pleasure for the students in the year to come in Enid High School, which has grown with Enid and with the years to meet every need for the best in education that may be desired.

foursome by a ½ to 2½ point count but McMahan and Balk won theirs by a 3 to 0 count.

The locals journeyed to Lincoln Park in Oklahoma City on April 28 to attend the two-day State Golf Meet. At the end of the first day the Plainsmen were in sixth place with 330, only 17 points behind pace-setting Duncan. When the meet was over the following day, Enid was still in sixth place with a total of 1004 for the 54 holes. Swartz was low man for the locals with 248. Talley was right on his heels with 249. McMahan and Balk shot 253, 254 respectively.

Two days later the Plainsmen journeyed to Blackwell for a return match with Enid coming out on top 13½-4½. McMahan was low-man for the locals with 82. Next came Talley with 83. Balk and Wasemiller followed with 88 and 98. Talley and McMahan defeated their opponents on the low-ball with a 2½-½ count. Balk and Wasemiller also defeated their opponents by the same margin.

The final match was played May 7, 1954 with Cassidy at Oakwood with Enid coming out on top 14½-3½. Talley was low man for the day with a 72. Next closest was Swartz with 77. Then Balk and McMahan with 82 and 88.

At the end of the Golf season Paul Geymann announced that five players had lettered. They were Charles Swartz, Leo Balk, Gene McMahan and Bill Johnston lettered for their first time and Tom Talley lettered for his third year.

BASEBALL

If the Plainsmen set no other state records, they certainly recorded the longest game of the season when they met the Northeast nine at Oklahoma City on April 27.

In a game which began in the afternoon and was completed in darkness, John Provost's pupils scored three runs in the 17th inning to put the contest on ice and break the tie 6-3. Tommy Seale went all the way making the marathon his fourth win of the season. This completed the regular season play.

The first game of the regional tournament was scheduled for Thursday, April 29, but was rained out. When the skies finally cleared on the following Monday, the Plainsmen routed the Alva Goldbugs 7-0 on the E-Club diamond. "Pug" Gammon went all the way for the locals.

In the semi-final round, played at Perry, Enid forced Guthrie out of the running, by a narrow 3-2 margin in extra innings. Tommy Seale was marked up with the win.

However, in the finals the Big Blue '54 edition found Stillwater High too rough a go of it. Nine to three was the final count as EHS bowed out of the tournament. David Giltner, Ronald LaPorte and Bob Conklin worked on the mound.

This Business of Publishing

BY THE

ADVANCED JOURNALISM STUDENTS

Dear Ed,

You told me to get that Journalism department story. And I did . . . complete with a few gray hairs and battle scars.

I casually walked to the Quill Office Thursday expecting to find a staff working diligently with strict precision, but as I mounted the steps, and nonchalantly proceeded into the room, someone shoved a stack of papers into my hand, and yelled "Take those down to the hook." I stood there with my mouth open. As the second year "big wheel," turned on me again, she realized the mistaken identity, and apologetically murmured, "Gee, I'm sorry Mister, but I thought you were one of those first year rookies."

Honest Ed, you'd think I was in the copy room of the Times. The enthusiasm these kids put into their paper is not only remarkable but exhausting. Seated arcund the largest horseshoe table in an Oklahoma high school, were ten girls . . . and Travis. This Miles really had a harem. He was Sports editor of the Weekly we soon found out, and the only boy in the third hour class. This class was the second-year group who served as the first semester "Quill Weekly" staff. In command of the group was chattering Barbara Roos, editor in chief of the "Quill." Gee, boss, the sophisticates in that class. Of course you know Elizabeth Marshall and Beth McCaleb were adding news to first page layout. Then came "Quieteness Personified," LaVena Park, and oddly enough she had Sue Ann Ellis off in a corner discussing business on their "second page." Merilyn Rudkin, Helen Shiers and Sue Heiserman were trying to beat the deadline on the feature work for the third page. Joy Ann Edwards, being the shorty she is, was standing on the dictionary looking for the piece of proof she and the other copy reader, Mona Durham, put on top of the shelf. They were working real hard, but just as I got inside someone made a wild dash out the door about clobbering me and this here camera.

Soon Miss Ruth Scott, the staff sponsor, appeared. Boss, and of all the changes. You know how it is when you appear suddenly!

Things quiet down to a low roar. Well, that's how it was when Miss Scott came in! Of course the staff knew she had a very important announcement to make and didn't want to miss it. This was the day when the second semester Quill staff was to be appointed from the two first year classes. As Miss Scott named Bruce Hinson, editor-in-chief; Judy Cromwell, associate editor; Barbara Roos and Helen Shiers, makeup editors; David Giltner, cartoonist; Ann Earnest, Dick McKnight, news editors; Frances Gammon and Conni Klingman, feature editors; Dick Godschalk and Lloyd Hurd, sports editors; Mary Bouchard and Patty McCoy, exchange editors, the second year students stuck their copy pencils behind their ears, grabbed their space books, and took off to start work in earnest on the annual. Heading the annual staff were co-editors Joy Ann Edwards and Mona Durham, Travis Miles

Gosh, Ed, those kids wore me down, completely! After closing up the office at 3:36 they insisted I attend their journalism club meeting. Are those kids proud of that club! It was newly organized this year and has a membership of seventy. Those members go all out getting speakers. They've really had some big whigs in the journalism world. As I was getting ready to leave, Ed, I'll swear I was kidnapped by a couple of future journalists. They just had to tell me about their trips to the journalism conferences so I could put it in my story. (Seems they knew the meaning of publicity.)

Last October six car loads of pencil pushers journeyed to Norman for the annual O:I.P.A. meet, where last year's annual was rated with highest honors in its class. The group attended discussions all day Friday, while their sponsor, Miss Scott, attended the O.I.P.A. advisors luncheon. (She was elected president of the organization.) Elizabeth Marshall was one of the members of the panel on Editorial discussion, while Barbara Roos was on the Advertising panel. The group attended the Barbershop singing that night and came home with word that it was "the most." They slept, well they stayed at the North Base that night. The next day they dragged themselves to the OU vs Kansas football game. But I'm afraid the only part of the game they covered was the bleachers.

Then in March, five junior members of the journalism department attended spring O.I.P.A. press meet. Ben Harrison was elected President of the state O.I.P.A.'ers for the coming year. Patty Phillips made his election speech. Others attending the meet were, Jo Ellen Barnes, Carol Cashion and Pat Dennis.

Ending the year was the Annual Staff dinner. (I even got invited to it Ed, great bunch of people, those student journalists!)

See boss, that's why the story was late! You just didn't know how much work the Journalism Department did? Now did ya' Ed? No lie Ed, what with headlines, dummy sheets, layouts, . . . why they run that paper just like a thriving metropolis's paper! And you just can't write a story like that over night, now can you Ed?

When the first Quill weekly for the '53-'54 term was distributed during the third week of school, the students were faced with a paper the size of a daily instead of the small one formerly published. The 1903 cylinder press model which was bought for EHS last summer is a great improvement over the press of last year. It provides a larger paper, prints better, and can print two pages at a time. Printing instructor Herbert Seem is shown above while demonstrating the new press.

the Duncan relays, they piled up 23½ points for second place. Donnie Weldon set a new high jump record at 5 feet 11 inches and tied for first place in the pole-vault. Roy Dennis again won the 100-yard dash with his fastest time yet, 9.9 seconds. The 880 relay team of Dennis, Pellow, Tom Harlan and Bill Athey chalked up a first place while Billy Francis placed third in the broadjump. In the 220 yard dash, Pellow and Dennis ran third and fourth.

The next week was Edmond where the boys from West Wabash placed third. Roy Dennis led the pack in both the 220 and 100 yard dashes, setting a new record of 22.4 seconds in the 220 while John Pellow placed second. Dennis ran the 100 in 10.3. Ronnie Wedel placed second in the half-mile run, while the 880 relay team of Bill Athey, Bill McDaniel, Dennis and Pellow did likewise. Donnie Weldon high jumped 5 feet 11¾ inches for first place and was second in the pole-vault. H. L. Crites placed fourth in the broad-jump to finish the team's scoring.

The Mid-State Conference meet at Norman was next for the Big Blue "flashes." The 100-yard dash found Roy Dennis, Bill McDaniel and John Pellow in the first three places. Dennis' time was 10.4 seconds. The 880 relay team of Jack Welch, Bill Athey, Dennis and Pellow finished second. Pellow's time of 22.4 gave him first place in the 220-yard dash. Ronnie Wedel and Don Weldon cleared 5 feet 11¾ inches to tie for first in the high jump.

Weldon and Mike Doremus tied for second place in the pole-vault while H. L. Crites was second in the broad-jump. The team brought home third place honors.

The Easter vacation gave the boys a little rest from the strains of a meet, but they practiced just the same. The Saturday after Easter found them at Tonkawa for the Regional meet. The Blue Streaks really brought home the bacon this time. They amassed 61½ points to run away with the meet. The 100-yard dash was a clean sweep with Roy Dennis, Bill McDaniel and John Pellow taking the honors. Dennis' winning time was 10.4 seconds. In the pole-vault, Donnie Weldon took top honors at 10 feet 6 inches, and Mike Doremus tied for second. McDaniel was only four feet short of winning the discus throw, but his time of 21.2 seconds won him the first place medal in the 180-yard low hurdles. The 880 relay team of McDaniel, Jack Welch, Pellow and Dennis burned up the distance in 1:32.5 to set a new mark. Ronnie Wedel won the half-mile and tied with Weldon for second place in the high jump at 6 feet 2 inches. Billy Francis placed second in the broadjump while teammate H. L. Crites was third. Jack Welch lost by a nose in the 440-yard dash to take second place. Rounding out the Plainsmen honors, Dennis and Pellow placed first and second in the 220-yard dash. The time was 23.1 seconds by Dennis.

Things looked great for the Big Blue but, alas, the state meet at Stillwater found Coach Charles Paine moanin' the blues. Roy Dennis, Jack Welch and Ronnie Wedel found themselves with pulled leg muscles and were unable to run. Donnie Weldon and Johnny Pellow were the only boys who were able to place. Weldon tied for first in the pole-vault and won the second place medal in the high jump. Pellow breezed through the 220-yard dash to add another first place medal to his collection. Once again the injury plague ruined the Plainsmen's hopes of taking a team place in the state meet but with only two boys scoring, they finished seventh in the meet to end the cinder season.

The Student Council of Enid High School has been well guided with such efficient officers as Dick McKnight, president; Victor Hayes, vice president; Sally Caldwell, secretary; and Jo Anne Hart, treasurer. The elected sophomore, junior and senior presidents also serve at the head of the council. They are: Floyd Skarky, sophomore class president; Bill Athey, junior class president; and Elaine Neill, senior class president.

Those who have worked hard on the Student Council this past year are as follows: Jo Ellen Barnes, Miss Armould's homeroom; Frances Gammon, Mrs. Boyle's homeroom; Mary Ann Brune, Miss Correll's homeroom; Dempsey Roten, Dr. de Gruchy's homeroom; Rosemary Mahaffey, Miss Fromholz's homeroom; Bill Davis, first semester, and Viola Mitchell, second semester, Mr. Gott's homeroom; Deanna Fisher, Miss Haskin's homeroom; Ben Harrison, Miss Helema's homeroom; Merlene Duckworth, Mr. Smith's homeroom; Barbara Roos, first semester, and John Pellow, second semester, Mr. Keeton's homeroom; J. W. Moore, first semester, and Neal Hoffman, second semester, Mr. Kirk's homeroom; Betty Crandall, Miss Koger's homeroom; Lou Ellen Howley, Miss Kretsch's homeroom; J. C. Gorton, Mr. McCoy's homeroom; Melvin Semrad, Miss Milam's homeroom; Roger Frantz, Miss Montgomery's homeroom; Phil Jones, Miss Moyer's homeroom; Elizabeth Marshall, Mr. Myers' home room; Charles West, first semester, and John Patterson, second semester, Mr. Paine's homeroom; Charlene Hicks, Mrs. Poindexter's homeroom; Terry Torbett, Miss Powers' homeroom; Hugh Simmons, Mrs. Pratt's homeroom; Donna Hughes, Mr. Provost's homeroom; Charles Bradley, Mr. Pyle's homeroom; Margaret Luhr, Mr. Ridge's homeroom; Raymond Frederick, Mr. Seem's homeroom; Juanita Skarky, Mrs. Spencer's homeroom; Sandy Caldwell, first semester, and Joe Hume, second semester, Miss Stewart's homeroom; Joan Allen, first semester, and Ann Henneke, second semester, Mrs. Vance's homeroom; Rooky Dykes, Mrs. Voigt's homeroom; Earl Needles, Mr. Stroup's homeroom; Pat Dennis, Mr. Wilson's homeroom; Ray Asphal, Miss Young's homeroom; and Martha Brewer, Mr. Kennedy's homeroom.

To become a member of student council you must be making and maintain a C average. You should have the extra time required for Student Council work. A member should also be one who can set a good example for others.

All of these loyal members have worked hard in forwarding EHS. They have undertaken many activities during the past year and accomplished many things.

Perhaps the most important achievement, in the eyes of the students, was the lengthening of the lunch hour. A special committee talked with Mr. Selby and succeeded in lengthening it an extra five minutes. As quiet zones had to be observed more closely, proctors were chosen from their fourth hour study hall to keep the halls quiet. Deanna Spickelmier was elected head proctor. The students have all enjoyed the extra few minutes and hope it will continue.

Among the activities planned by the EHS governing body was a party held at the beginning of the year to welcome students new to the Enid school system. They also had the art classes submit designs, appropriate for the cover of the new student directories, and then selected the one they liked best.

The Student Council has taken care of many of the school elections. They have prepared the ballots and tabulated them for all the class officer, student body, basketball queen and spring sports queen elections.

During the open house, the class officers, student body officers, and representatives acted as hosts and hostesses to those who came and visited our high school.

The council members had a special committee this year to plan assemblies. It was composed of representatives and faculty members who met with Miss Moore and planned assemblies that all students enjoyed.

Just before Thanksgiving, student representatives issued bookmarks to the entire school for daily Bible readings from Thanksgiving until Christmas.

As a Christmas project, the Student Council adopted a needy family. Different members brought food and canned goods and prepared a Christmas basket for the family.

The second semester brought forth many worthwhile accomplishments, too. Our student parking situation was brought under control after many meetings of a special council committee with members of the city traffic department.

Later in the year, the Alva Student Council representatives came to visit Enid High School. Members of our council escorted them around the building, told them how our meetings were conducted and what projects were being undertaken.

Among the activities at the end of school, the council members played hosts to the ninth graders who visited the high school in late April.

"All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," so the student representatives took time from their busy schedule to have a picnic. It was one of their last activities of the year. Faculty members, proctors, class officers, student body officers and all representatives were on hand for the fun.

We are proud of our 1953-54 Student Council because it has helped make Enid High School a better school.

THIS WAS THE BEGINNING

—BY—

. . . as the chain passed into the eager hands of our Class from the hands of Senior Class President Norman Lamb. Through our representative, Junior President Elaine Neill, we became the Seniors of '54.

Opening the merry spring whirl of commencement for the graduating seniors was the Junior-Senior Prom. Dancing to the music of Phil Kaye's orchestra, the seniors turned the Legion Hall into a fairyland composed of gay multi-colored formal attire. The prom was sponsored by the Enid Trades' Council. The evening started off at nine o'clock with the traditional Grand March and then switched into popular strains of the Bunny Hop and ballroom dances.

Then, two weeks later, memories of the past and visions of the future were easily recalled as each and every senior was made a guest of honor at the church of his choice on May 18 and 19 for the Senior Banquets. They are held annually by many of the churches of Enid for the graduating members of their congregations.

The Senior Skip Day for '54 got underway at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday, May 18. Seniors met at the 300 block of West Cherokee and paraded in their decorated jalopies back to EHS behind a screaming patrol car. Sophomores and juniors watched out the windows enviously eyeing the procession as it circled the school several times. Then—off to Lake Hellums. The city police left the caravan at the city limits where the Highway Patrol took over. Once at Hellums, seniors donned bathing suits, played softball, miniature golf, or stood in groups talking. After a picnic lunch, seniors were escorted back to town to a free movie at the Esquire theater, courtesy of Mr. J. P. Shipley, manager. A sort of silence settled over the group as they left the theater. The seniors realized that their Skip Day was over, and it wouldn't be long until they would all be together as a group for the last time.

Another week passed and as the shadows of the spring day faded over the hills at Government Springs park and the last note of gay music floated out over the lake, laughing girls and handsome boys wound their way from the scene of one of the last events of the '53-'54 school year, the annual May Fete.

Shortly afterward, the students of Enid High School and their dates proceeded to the American Legion Hall for the dance given in honor of the May Queen, Donna Hughes, and her Herald, Tom Talley. The dance was sponsored by the Enid Civic Council.

In the receiving line at the gala event were Donna and Tom, as well as the May Queen attendants, Mr. Selby, and the senior class sponsors, Miss Charlotte Kretsch, Miss Ruth Scott, Mr. Cecil Gott and Mr. Perry McCoy. The Grand March highlighted the dance, with every young person taking part in it.

The dawning of Friday, May 28, brought forth the Senior Class Day Exercises which were held on the front steps of EHS. Travis Miles served as master of ceremonies after the presenting of the colors by Victor Hayes, Dick McKnight, Charles Foster and Bob Stewart. Formal opening was given by Donna Hughes and Bob Snowden, and the Class History, written by Judy Cromwell and Bruce Hinson, read to give a colorful summary of the twelve years' activities in Enid schools. The reading brought back happy and sad memories, the winning ways and the "unconquerable spirit" ways.

The first musical number was a cello solo, "The Swan," played by Viola Mitchell, accompanied by Sally Caldwell. This was followed by Patty McCoy and Dick Godschalk reading the humorous Class Will and the Class Prophecy, written by Elizabeth Marshall and Rooky Dykes. The next number on the program was a vocal duet by Majel Michael and Mary Deel, with Sally Caldwell at the piano.

On the more serious side of Class Day was the presentation of the gold chain, made of links given by every graduating class since 1907, now increased to 48 links. Then, Principal D. Bruce Selby made the awards and scholarships for those who had achieved outstanding merit. The last musical number on the program was a senior mixed-ensemble under the direction of Miss Maurine Morrow. The Class Day program was concluded by Elaine Neill, who gave the Ivy Oration on the '54 class motto, "Unconquerable Spirit."

At eight o'clock on the evening of May 28, the formally-attired seniors arrived at the Education Building to be greeted by pinafore-and-pantaloon clad sophomore girls. Stepping into the room, the seniors entered a land of make-believe. At one end was a life-size Mother Goose storybook with Little Bo Peep (Kay Dailey) sitting in front of it. At the other end was an old Grandfather Clock.

The lights dimmed and Bill Athey, master of ceremonies, extended a welcome to the upperclassmen and guests. The first number, taken from the nursery rhyme, "London Bridge Is Falling Down," was brought up-to-date by the dance band's rendition of the popular song, "Cross Over the Bridge." Each skit was introduced by Little Bo Peep from the large nursery book, while the narrating was done by Rosetta Hoyle.

For an hour and a half, the senior class reminisced over bygone childhood days. All too soon it was time for the finale. The song, "Young at Heart," was the theme of the last number, with the chorus, orchestra and dancers joining in to make it an unforgettable program.

Adding the final religious touch to graduation, Reverend Robert J. Smith, of the First Methodist Church, chose the topic "Trustees of Tomorrow" for his Baccalaureate Sermon for Seniors, Sunday, May 30. He portrayed the graduating seniors as holders of a great "trust" and suggested the different ways in which it might be put to use.

The Baccalaureate Sermon has long been a part of graduation. The reason for this last meeting in a worshipful atmosphere is essential need for a spiritual uplift. Seniors have expressed their feeling of this need in many ways in times past.

The final meeting of the seniors, their families and friends was held in the Educaton Building on Thursday, June 3, at 8:15 p.m. As the beginning strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" were heard, the eyes of every senior were fixed on the stage. After their last long walk down the aisle to their seats, their hearts were touched by the impressive message of Dr. Ronald D. Meridith, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Wichita. As their names were called, the seniors passed across the stage, received their diplomas, and left as the graduating class of 1954.

We became a part of EHS past history with the passing of the chain, now one link longer, from our reluctant hands to those of the new Senior Class, represented by Bill Athey.
